UNIONS STRIVE FOR PEACE AT CAPITAL SESSION

Lewis' Presidential Aim at Stake.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—A momentous peace conference will assemble at the Willard hotel tomorrow. Upon its outcome hinge the immediate fortunes of the trade union movement in America and within its shadow is the presidential election of 1940.

On one side of the table will be ranged the representatives of John L. Lewis, aggressive generalissimo of the Committee for Industrial Organization, who is seeking a compromise with the American Federation of Labor whereby his suspended unions will be reinstated in the federation with full recognition of the claims of his organization to sole labor sovereignty in the mass industries.

If Lewis succeeds in this endeavor to make peace with the federation he will have cleared away a big obstacle in the path of his ambition to seek the presidency of the United States in 1940 at the head of a Farmer-Labor party.

Viewed as Suitor for Peace.

On the other side of the table will appear the delegates of the federation who look upon Mr. Lewis as a suitor for peace in an effort to forestall the impending collapse and liquidation of his entire C. I. O. movement because of the prospective desertion of important unions and the exhaustion of funds. They will be in no mood to make concessions, believing that the Lewis unions will return to the federation eventually on the federation's terms.

Under the terms of the compromise aimed at by Mr. Lewis the steel, textile, automobile, and other mass industries would be organized by the vertical industrial unions of the C. I. O., and the smaller industries would be left in the hands of the craft unions of the A. F. of L.

"At no time and on no occasion," said Mr. Lewis, "have the members of the C. I. O. expressed opposition to established craft unions. They have constantly held, both within and without the federation, that craft unions have their appropriate place in the organized labor movement and are essential to its success. They have pointed out at all times, however, that under modern conditions the organized labor movement cannot be effective in any sense unless the basic industries are organized. This the craft unions failed to do, and conclusively demonstrated as long ago as the steel strike of 1919 that they were unable to do."

May Become Department.

A suggested form of the compromise is that the C. I. O. should become a department of the federation like the building trades department. William Green, president of the federation, declined today to forestall the peace negotiations by commenting on any form of compromise.

"Our committee," he said, "will enter tomorrow's conference with open minds. Our committee will be bound by no prior commitments or pledges. It will be entirely free and unrestricted in its efforts to work out a settlement.

"We are sincerely desirous of peace. We earnestly hope and believe that the negotiations can result in the restoration of a united labor movement in this country under the banner of the American Federation of Labor. The interests of the nation and of labor itself demand such an outcome.

"The door of the American Federation of Labor is open. It has been held open for two years. We welcome this first move on the part of those who have left us to come back."

Paper Unions Issue.

The federation refuses to concede that there is any issue with Mr. Lewis over industrial unions. Industrial unions, like those in the steel and textile industries, always have existed in the federation side by side with the craft unions. From the federation viewpoint the issue is over dues paying and nondues paying unions. Mr. Lewis, according to the federation, has organized paper

Little Barry, Age 5, Bags Makin's of Bearskin Coat

NELSON, B. C., Oct. 24.—(AP)—Little Barry Simpson, 5 years old, upset the best nursery rhyme procedure by bagging his own "bearskin to wrap the baby in." Maybe Barry tired of waiting for "papa to go a hunting," as per Mother Goose. Anyway, when he saw a bear in a tree near his home in the Kootenai district mamma held up the rifle barrel and Barry got the makings for his winter equipment.

CONGREGATION VOWS WAR ON PICKETS, BUT PASTOR AVERTS CLASH

New York, Oct. 24.—[Special.]—A parade of labor pickets for the second successive Sunday before Grace Episcopal church in Whitestone, Queens, reached a critical stage today when members of the congregation decided to "escort the pickets out of town."

However, at the insistence of the rector, the Rev. Ernest Sinfield, the congregation agreed to an attitude of moderation.

Feeling has been intense at the church, one of the oldest in Queens, since pickets first appeared during construction of a new parish hall adjoining the church. The pickets wore banners declaring that the construction concern was "unfair to union labor."

In his sermon the Rev. Mr. Sinfield said he was "generally sympathetic with the unions," but he would not permit the church to be "dictated to by a group of men from all parts of New York City."

Science, Says the Warden, Is Fine Invention

James Carter is living proof that a horse thief cannot change his finger prints any more than a leopard can paint his own spots. No, sir, not even in twenty-seven years.

Deputy Warden Warlick, who got his horse thief.

It was back in 1910 that Carter, a trim fellow of 41, stole a horse in Oklahoma. The state was then quite civilized and instead of stringing him up on the nearest tree the folks gave him a trial and sentenced him to three years in prison.

Oklahoma had only one big prison, at McAlester. Carter went there, serene in the knowledge that this was better than hanging. But he didn't stay more than 18 months. Sometime in 1911 the state decided to build a new prison at Granite and Carter was chosen as one of the builders.

Idea Doesn't Appeal.

The idea of building tall, massive granite walls to hold himself in didn't appeal, particularly as the convict workers' camp was surrounded by nothing more substantial than a wire fence through which could plainly be seen wide stretches of wild country. So James Carter seized an opportunity and escaped.

As quickly as possible he went away from Oklahoma, and continued to wander through the succeeding years.

Gradually he forgot the little episode of the horse. He saw one so seldom in recent years that he developed the comfortable theory that perhaps horse-thieving was no longer a crime worthy of remembrance. He wasn't worried unduly, therefore, when he was arrested a couple of weeks ago at Mishawaka, Ind., on a charge of operating a confidence game. He was using the alias Sanford there.

Prints are Compared.

But the Mishawaka authorities sent his finger prints to the federal bureau of investigation in Washington and a comparison showed that he was James Carter. His wooden leg clinched the identification. The same fellow, but just a little stooped and a lot grayer than he had been in 1911.

The prison at Granite was notified and Deputy Warden L. V. Warlick donned his ten gallon light tan hat and started to Mishawaka. There Carter readily admitted he was the horse fancier of long ago and waived extradition. Warden Warlick brought him to Chicago and left him overnight at the Central police station. They're going on tomorrow.

"Science," remarked the warden, "is wonderful. Carter is astonished at the way it works. But he says he's glad to go back. He's been wondering for 27 years what that Granite prison looked like when the other boys got it finished."

C. I. O. ORGANIZER DIES OF SHOT WOUNDS; RIVAL C. I. O. LEADER HUNTED

John White, who nursed an ambition to become something more than a plain organizer for the United Automobile Workers of America, a C. I. O. affiliate, died last night in the Danish-American hospital of bullet wounds inflicted by a rival C. I. O. organizer for the same union.

The police are seeking Charles Cain, 40 years old, 5118 West 14th street, Cicero, who has been identified by several witnesses as the slayer. With two companions, Cain fled after the shooting, which took place Tuesday in the headquarters of local 477 of the U. A. W. A. at 5948 Grand avenue, after union officials had held a conference there.

Emmett Roache, president of the local; Anthony Audia, vice president, and Arthur Alexander, who were present, told Capt. Albert Mikes of the Cragin district that although the post of general organizer had been taken from White and given to Cain, White had been retained as his subordinate.

The two men had just returned from a tavern, Capt. Mikes was told. Cain went to the washroom in the hall, witnesses said, then came out with a pistol, walked up to White and shot him three times.

White, who was 36 years old, was married and the father of five children. His home was at 16108 Park avenue, Harvey.

U. S. AND BRITAIN PROTEST RAID BY JAPANESE FLYER

Attack at Shanghai Perils Americans.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 24.—(AP)—A British soldier was killed and five Americans and about twenty other foreigners were endangered today when a Japanese plane, with machine guns blazing, swooped five times over groups near the western edge of Shanghai's international settlement.

Consul General Clarence E. Gauss of the United States protested to the Japanese consulate general.

A British sentry at the scene said British soldiers returned the Japanese airman's fire with automatic rifles. British army authorities officially branded the affair a "deliberate attack." Japanese naval and civilian officers quickly expressed regret to the British.

Outposts Sprayed by Bullets.

British army officers disclosed that three British outposts in the Keswick road area were sprayed by the Japanese flyer's bullets and that a second British soldier escaped serious injury when a cigaret case stopped a bullet which pierced his uniform.

A Japanese spokesman said the shooting was due to the error of an aviator who believed he was shooting at Chinese.

The British victim of the attack was Rifleman W. McGowan of the Royal Ulster Rifles, a native of Donegal, Ireland. He died soon after admission to a hospital.

Four times the Japanese flyer swooped at groups of foreigners seeking recreation along Keswick road, outside the international settlement but inside the British defense lines. Many were on horseback, others walking.

Reply with Rifle Fire.

The fifth time the airman plunged toward a British defense position. McGowan was hit. Other British soldiers dived behind sandbags. Then, said a sentry, a British naval officer ordered the men to reply with rifles, which they did.

The Americans endangered, according to a report to Consul General Gauss, were H. D. Rodger, prominent attorney, formerly of Hammond, N. Y.; R. K. Smith of Montclair, N. J., Shanghai manager of the United States Life Insurance company; Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Sprague of Cleveland, O., and Miss Peggy Arnold of New London, Conn. Sprague is with the Socony Vacuum Oil company.

No foreigner except McGowan was injured, but four Chinese nearby were reported killed and six wounded.

Calls Attack "Plain Murder."

Rodger said the attack was "plain murder." He said more than 20 men and women riders, "dressed in all kinds of sports clothes in which it was impossible to mistake them for soldiers," were scattered along the roadway.

"When the plane came down I dived into the bushes," said Rodger. "Others did likewise."

To express official regrets for the shooting Rear Admiral Rokuzo Sugiyama, chief of staf of the Japanese naval forces, called on Admiral Sir Charles J. C. Little, British commander in chief; while K. Okamoto, Japanese consul general, made a similar call on Herbert Phillips, British consul general.

Japanese Report Advance.

The attack coincided with what Japanese spokesmen called a general advance of their forces along the front north and northwest of Shanghai, with the Chinese retiring at nearly all points.

The Japanese said they had advanced to the gates of Tazang, keypoint in the Chinese defenses and objective of a great battle raging for four days, and were within two miles of Nanziang, ten miles west of Shanghai. Large Chinese forces were said to have been trapped near Nanziang.

A Chinese spokesman ridiculed Japanese reports of Chinese retreats from Tazang and other sectors.

Japanese planes carried out their first night raid on Hankow, 600 miles up the Yangtze valley, causing considerable damage.

Eight Japanese bombers attacked the railway between Canton and Hongkong in the far south, destroyed a passenger train, killed two Chinese and wounded four.

JAPS TOLD THEY FACE HISTORY'S GRAVEST CRISIS

BY KIMPEI SHEBA.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Oct. 24.—Japan is facing the gravest crisis in its history—a situation far graver than when it fought Russia in 1903—leaders of the nation frankly are warning the people. The reasons are:

1. The undeclared war on China, which most Japanese believed would end by November, shows no signs of early termination.

See Russia Entering War.

2. The intervention of world powers, which once was regarded as absolutely unlikely, seems to be maturing.

3. The danger that soviet Russia will join the conflict on the side of China is growing daily.

The population generally still believes the hostilities will end by Christmas, but the leaders hesitate to make such predictions. They privately expect the war to continue for some time.

Outward appearances indicate Tokio is in festive mood. Flag waving groups march in all parts of the city and crowds shout "Banzai!"

Call Recruits at Game.

Japan's "world series" baseball game was played yesterday in Tokio. There was no cheering because of the grave situation. During the game a loudspeaker twice summoned men from among the spectators to return home at once because notices to join the army had been received.

Aviatrix Clips Australia to London Mark

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 24.—Setting a new record for a flight from Australia to England, Miss Jean Batten, 26 years old, of New Zealand, landed her low winged Percival Gull monoplane at Croydon airport at 4:35 p. m. today.

Buffeted by bad weather most of the way, Miss Batten clipped 14 hours and 10 minutes from the record of 6 days 8 hours and 25 minutes set in May by H. R. Broadbent. She took 5 days 18 hours and 15 minutes for the 8,615 mile flight from Port Darwin to England. Broadbent is flying now toward Australia in an attempt to retrieve the record.

Before landing at Croydon on the last leg from Naples, Miss Batten came down at Lympne airdrome in Kent at 3:45 p. m. She rushed through customs then headed for London escorted by half a dozen planes.

Ten thousand persons milling around Croydon scrambled over barriers and swept aside police cordons in a frenzied welcome.

"It was the worst flight as far as the weather was concerned I have ever made," Miss Batten said after she was carried shoulder high through the crowd by police. "The machine at times was flung about with tremendous violence." Miss Batten appeared deafened by the noise of her 200 horse power Gipsey engine. "I have a good deal of sleep to make up. My eyes are very tired," she said.

Mother First to Greet Her.

The first to greet the slim dark haired flyer was her mother who had come especially from New Zealand.

Miss Batten first took up flying three years ago. In October last year she made the first direct flight from England to New Zealand in 11 days 56 minutes and was the first woman to fly across the Tasman sea. She also was the first woman to fly the South Atlantic.

For 161 Years Swallows Go South on Same Date

San Juan Capistrano, Cal., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—Just as they have done every fall since the mission was established in 1776, the swallows of San Juan Capistrano mission flew southward yesterday for winter quarters. The birds always leave on the same date every year, Oct. 23, and return on the same date, March 19.

BLAST WRECKS FRENCH VESSEL; CREW RESCUED

Mysterious Cruiser Halts Second Boat.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 24.—Two new acts of "piracy" in the western Mediterranean today increased French fears for her imperial communications which are threatened by Italian occupation of Mallorca and Ibiza, Spanish rebel held islands of the Balearics.

The 2,413 ton French freighter Oued Mellah, carrying a cargo of fruit and vegetables from North Africa to Port Vendres, French port near the Spanish border, was bombed by an unidentified plane fifty miles east of Barcelona, Spain, and was abandoned by its crew.

The freighter Procida, bound from Marseilles to Oran, Algeria, was stopped in the Gulf of Lions, ten miles off the French coast, by a cruiser of "foreign nationality," but later was permitted to proceed.

Crew of French Ship Saved.

A third "incident" was reported by the British liner Kaiser-I-Hind, whose captain stated he saw a plane dropping bombs on a submarine half way between Alicante, Spain, and Cape Tenes, North Africa. After maintaining for several hours they were without information, the British admiralty in London announced the reports grew out of a British flying boat dropping bombs to "discover the direction of the wind," denying a submarine was involved. Later a second statement said the flying boat was engaged in bombing practice on a floating target.

Two French warships raced to the scene of the Oued Mellah bombing and reported that all of the crew was saved but that the vessel was badly damaged. The raider plunged a bomb into the freighter's bow, lifting the propellers out of the water and preventing it from navigating under its own power.

Attacked on Patrol Route.

The plane attack was considered the gravest Mediterranean incident since the Nyon "anti-piracy" accord, backed principally by France and Great Britain and adhered to by Italy, established a sea patrol against marine marauders.

The French destroyer Milan wirelessed from the scene that the Oued Mellah was attacked while following "Route No. 2" prescribed by the Nyon agreement.

In the second "incident," the marauding warship, which flew no colors at all, ordered the Procida to alter its route and steam in the general direction of the Balearics. An hour later, apparently yielding to protests, the mysterious cruiser gave permission for the freighter to resume its course toward the French port of Sete. The cruiser then disappeared at full speed.

French Officials Disturbed.

Though the Procida was not attacked, and there was no act of inhuman piracy like those which occurred almost daily before the Nyon agreement, news of the incidents has greatly disturbed French naval and diplomatic circles.

The agitation created by the recent seizure of the French ship Cassadiagne by two Italian destroyers—an incident which almost provoked the French into occupying Minorca [loyalist held island of the Balearics]—has not died away completely and now come these new incidents which, to French eyes, seem a particularly reckless and insolent provocation.

Furthermore, it comes in the middle of the new diplomatic crisis provoked by the new unyielding attitude manifested by Rome yesterday regarding the withdrawal of "volunteers" from Spain.

Arab World Agitated.

On top of all this, the whole Arab world from Palestine to Morocco is seething with agitation which Italian propaganda allegedly is fanning. New disorders broke out in Egypt yesterday and today and Friday there was a particularly serious native uprising at Khemisset in French Morocco.

At first the French believed Italy simply was carrying out a gigantic blackmail plot against England and France. The fact that the Italian attitude has seemed even more unyielding, if not downright provocative, since the arrival of Joachim von Ribbentrop, German ambassador to London, in Rome on what was supposed to be a mission of pacification suggests to Paris that there is something more than Italian blackmail in the present crisis.

It is feared here that Germany is egging Italy on so as to tie up the French army while Germany goose-steps through Czechoslovakia and Austria. Hence, there is hesitation about coming to a showdown with Italy in the Mediterranean. Yet the menace to France's empire is becoming so real and so acute that it is hardly possible for her to remain inactive much longer.

The war in the far east complicates the situation. More and more the conviction is growing here that the three trouble makers, Germany, Italy, and Japan, are carrying out a concerted plot against the civilized world.

Ready to Use Force.

PARIS, Oct. 24.— (AP) —Premier Camille Chautemps, delivering a major declaration on the policy of his Popular Front government, warned today that France was determined to defend her vital interests by force, if need be.

The premier tempered his declaration with an offer of peace to "all nations which will prove by their acts their desire to keep their engagements loyally."

Chautemps spoke at Chateauroux before the congress of the Central federation of his Radical Socialist party.

"I hope especially in the grievous affair of Spain this pacific, prudent, and courageous action will succeed in cutting short the violations of justice which cannot be renewed without constraining France and Britain to renew their liberty of action," Chautemps said.

The premier's declaration recalled French insistence that unless the nonintervention committee soon pulled foreign troops out of Spain France would open her frontier to aid the Spanish government.

Italy's Word Can't Be Doubted.

ROME, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Authoritative Fascist publications declared today that refusal of the nonintervention committee to accept Italy's figure of 40,000 as the number of Italian volunteers in Spain would mean collapse of negotiations for their withdrawal.

Virginio Gayda, often a government spokesman, writing in La Voce d'Italia, asserted that Italy, having informed Britain and France that there were 40,000 Italians in Spain, would insist her figures be accepted and would "admit of no argument on the subject."

Premier Mussolini's Milan newspaper, Il Popolo d'Italia, said the Italian communication, "which cannot be questioned, represents a warning which it would be dangerous to ignore."

Gayda charged there was a concerted effort of anti-Fascist elements abroad to cast doubt on the truth of Italy's figure by publishing pretended authentic information from Spain placing the number at 100,000 or more.

300 DIE IN FIGHTS ON DOMINICAN, HAITIAN BORDER

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti, Oct. 24.—(AP)—It was reported today that more than 300 persons were killed and 300 wounded ten days ago in outbreaks along the Haitian-Dominican frontier.

The disorders were described as the result of bitter resentment in border towns of the Dominican republic against heavy immigration of Haitian laborers. Most of the dead and wounded were Haitians.

Public indignation ran high in Haiti today. Authorities, fearing reprisals against Dominicans residing in Port-Au-Prince and Cap Haitien, forbid all public demonstrations. Police squads patrolled the cities to disperse all gatherings. Haitians who escaped across the border predicted the final toll would reach 1,700 dead and wounded.

French Ship Bombed; Second Halted

Two French ships figured yesterday in a renewal of "piratical" incidents in the Mediterranean. French warships rushed to the area off Spain where a freighter was bombed by an unidentified plane. A second freighter was halted near the coast of France by a mystery warship, but after protests, was allowed to proceed to Gete.

LOYALIST ARTILLERY POUNDS RAIL LINE TO BLOCK REBEL TROOPS

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Oct. 24.—Spanish rebel troop trains rumbled into Saragossa province today bringing reinforcements for Gen. Francisco Franco's projected final drive to cut Barcelona from Valencia and end Spain's 15 month old civil war.

Government artillery pounded the railroad tracks between Teruel and Saragossa on the eastern front in an attempt to break up troop movements.

There was intense activity in rebel territory behind the Aragon front twisting 300 miles south from the French border to Teruel.

The rebel aviation command announced its war planes had sunk three ships at Tarragona, Mediterranean port 50 miles southwest of Barcelona.

KIN OF HAWAIIAN KING IS ARRESTED IN DEATH OF WIFE

HONOLULU, T. H., Oct. 24.—(AP)—A scion of the royal house of Hawaii, David Kalakau Kawananakoa, 33 years old, was held today while police investigated the death of his asserted common law wife, Arvilla Kinsley, 22 years old, during a party in their beach cottage.

The body of the woman, enshrouded in a blood-stained sheet, was found in a sitting position in a chair. There was a deep gash in the neck and several facial lacerations. Dr. H. B. Faus, autopsy physician, said the cuts could have been caused only by shattered crockery.

A police official said Kalakau had been drinking. There were three others in the house. One was Maj. Bernard J. Tooher of the United States army. Kalakau is a grandnephew of King David Kalakaua, last male monarch of Hawaii, and a son of Princess Kawananakoa.

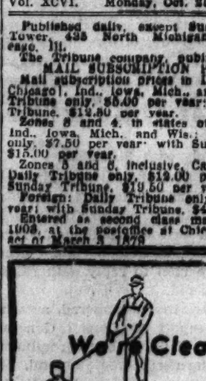
FRANCE ORDERS GIJON REFUGEES BACK TO SPAIN

BORDEAUX, France, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Thousands of Spanish refugees who had just escaped the fall of Gijon Thursday started back to Spain tonight under French government decrees which made their repatriation mandatory.

More than 2,000 who had reached Gironde river ports from Gijon passed through Bordeaux on trains bound for Catalonia. Eleven hundred more were gathered at La Rochelle and 1,000 at Lorient, all intended for repatriation to Spanish government territory.

JAPANESE QUIT PART OF ISLAND HELD BY RUSSIA

TOKIO, Oct. 24.—(AP)—The newspaper Chugai Shogyo Shimpo reported today that Japanese workers and residents are evacuating Russian owned Northern Sakhalin Island, owing to "illegal oppression which makes continuance of business impossible."



Russia owns blackened area of island.

[Japan owns the southern half of Sakhalin, north of Japan proper; soviet Russia owns the northern part. However, Japanese hold valuable oil prospecting and lumber concessions in the Russian part, giving rise to recurrent friction.]

DOCK WORKERS BOYCOTT JAPAN'S SHIPS IN FRANCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 24.—France today took the lead in the world movement to boycott Japan.

The powerful Federation of Port and Dock Workers decided that henceforth no Japanese steamer may load or unload at any French port. In taking this decision it ratified the independent initiative of Marseilles dock workers who refused to unload a Japanese steamer at that port.

Small Japanese gains were reported along the Tientsin-Pukow railway, where the Japanese vanguard was said to be fighting some 30 miles north of Tsinan, Shantung capital.

Domei, the Japanese national news agency, reported establishment of a new régime in Suiyuan province, recently conquered by the Japanese army. The agency said representatives of the Mongol and Chinese population met at Kweisui, provincial capital, and declared independence of the Chinese government.

Use of the Chinese national flag was forbidden and the Mongol banner of Prince Teh—for years an ally of the Japanese—was adopted. Restoration of the old Mongol calendar was ordered. This dates from the era of Genghiz Khan, the great Mongol conqueror of the 13th century and makes the present year 732.

ROOSEVELT URGES RESPECT FOR LAW AMONG POWERS

PARIS, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Edouard Herriot, president of the chamber of deputies, announced receipt of a cablegram from President Roosevelt echoing the French demand for respect for international law.

Herriot, former premier and Radical Socialist mayor of Lyons, said the telegram was in response to a recent message from Lyons officials to the American President congratulating him on his Chicago speech calling for a "quarantine" of aggressor nations.

The telegram in reply said:

"I am profoundly grateful to you and the municipal council of Lyons for the good wishes expressed in your telegram of Oct. 19. It was encouraging to me to receive this assurance that you and the municipal council of the great city of Lyons share my belief. If we wish to preserve peace it is essential that we return to a respect of international law and of the laws of humanity."

ONE DEAD, 5 HURT IN DOWNTOWN AUTO-CAB CRASH

Two Are Seriously Injured in Collision.

Six men were injured, one of them fatally, in a collision between two automobiles at Harrison and Clark streets yesterday. John Sroka, 23 years old, 826 North Marshfield avenue, died in St. Luke's hospital last night after the crash.

Sroka was in a car with Joseph Wojcik, 22 years old, 1302 Augusta boulevard, the driver; Raymond Litterski, 22 years old, 466 North Ashland avenue, and Anthony Giovingo, 22 years old, 939 Hudson avenue, when it collided with a Checker cab driven by Edward Wilkovsky, 29 years old, 3821 Fillmore street. Frank Henderson, 30 years old, of Terre Haute, Ind., was a passenger in the cab. Wilkovsky and Henderson suffered skull fractures, and are in St. Luke's hospital. Wojcik, Litterski, and Giovingo, who were less seriously injured, are in St. Mary's hospital.

Killed in Stolen Truck.

Joseph Koldan, 40 years old, 852 North Leavitt street, was instantly killed, and William Nowicki, 21 years old, 1407 West Superior street, and Charles Wilks, 21 years old, 1363 Ancona avenue, were injured early today when the stolen truck in which they were riding struck an "L" line pillar on Augusta boulevard, between Hermitage avenue and Paulina street. Nowicki's injuries were not serious, but Wilks, who was driving the truck isin the Bridewell hospital with a possible skull fracture.

Nowicki told Racine avenue police that he and Koldan were drinking in a tavern when Wilks appeared and offered to drive them home. They said all three had several more drinks and were speeding along the boulevard when the crash occurred. The truck was stolen last night from Alex Katz, 3852 Evergreen avenue, who had parked it in front of his home.

Four Injured in Evanston.

Robert Walshaw, 40 years old, 913 Forest avenue, Evanston, secretary-treasurer of the Chicago Daily Times, suffered a possible leg fracture, and another man and two young women were also hurt when their car rammed a parked automobile in Oakton street, near Florence avenue, in Evanston. The others are Miss Evelyn Andersen, 20, of 2220 North Leamington avenue; Miss Gertrude Andersen, 22, her sister, and Charles Temple, 29, of 460 Washington boulevard, Oak Park. Evelyn Andersen was driving. All were taken to St. Francis hospital, Evanston.

Leon McNichols, 40 years old, colored, 3140 Vernon avenue, died last night in the County hospital of injuries suffered on Sept. 18 when he was struck by a car driven by Edward Kennedy, 37 years old, also colored, 455 East 31st street. The accident occurred in front of 3224 South Park way.

Mrs. Ella Alm, 53 years old, 2614 Milwaukee avenue, died last night in her home of a skull fracture suffered on Aug. 16. She was injured when she was jolted out of her husband's truck in a collision with a car driven by Emil Hirn, 1822 North Keystone avenue, at Belden and Central avenues.

Cycle Injuries Fatal.

Struck by a motorcycle Sept. 27 in Stony Island avenue at 65th street, Bernard Glemba, 70 years old, 1464 East 77th place, died of injuries yesterday in Michael Reese hospital. Charles McHale, 434 West 59th street, the cyclist, was notified by Woodlawn police to attend the inquest today.

Arthur H. Swanson Jr., 13 years old, 375 Orchard lane, Highland Park, most seriously injured in a party of school children when a truck hit their hayrack in Central avenue near McGovern road in the suburb Saturday night, was taken home yesterday from Highland Park hospital. He is suffering from a back and kidney injury. Carroll Ebert, driver of the truck, was released on bond for trial Saturday on charges of reckless driving.

Six Shaken Up in Crash.

Three policemen and three other persons were shaken up last night in a collision at Sedgwick and Dickens streets. The policemen, John O'Malley, Thomas Kelly, and David Mulcrone, on duty in the Hudson-Sheffield district, were driving in Sedgwick street when a car driven by John Schmidt Jr., 2111 Clifton avenue, in which his parents were riding, cut in on them from Dickens street. No one was injured. Young Schmidt was charged with reckless driving.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 868 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 657 were killed in Chicago, where 18,661 were injured in the same period.

FALLS DOWNSTAIRS; KILLED.

Mrs. Ortha Heckler, 67 years old, 16 West Ontario street, fell down the basement stairs at 1500 North LaSalle street yesterday while visiting Mrs. Louise Verner and was fatally injured. She opened the basement door, mistaking it for a door to the second floor.

TARGET FOR DARTS

LOLITA CORDOBA.

PRESCOTT VAN WYCK.

New York, Oct. 24.—[Special.]—Prescott Van Wyck tomorrow will appear before the grand jury to accuse his dancer wife of bigamy. He is grand nephew of the first mayor of Greater New York.

Mrs. Van Wyck today told how she stood nude in a corner of their bridal suite while Van Wyck called in the chauffeur to take turns shooting a lemon off her head with arrows.

That, said the former Lolita Cordoba, was only the beginning of the strange ceremonies that followed their elopement to Armonk last January. Van Wyck, who has quantities of money, indulged in several other vagaries during the elopement honeymoon, Lolita explained.

When he ran out of arrows to fire at the lemon, she said, he tossed a few darts. Then he got right into the spirit of the occasion by donning his Hopi Indian costume.

MISSING INDIANA GIRL, 11, IS FOUND AFTER SIX DAYS

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 24.—(AP)—Missing six days because of fear of returning home to show her school report card, 11 year old Nellie Stevens was found alive but weak and hungry here today, ending a wide search.

A barking dog led a boy to a spot behind a vacant house where the girl lay on a blanket beneath shrubbery, almost within sight of the home of her foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hogatt.

She was taken to City hospital, where attachés said she was suffering from exposure and shock.

HIGHWAY PERILS OF NIGHT DRIVING SHOWN IN SURVEY

Trip on U. S. 20 Reveals Some Accident Causes.

BY HAL FOUST.

Because statistics show motor travel at night to be six times as dangerous as in daylight, THE TRIBUNE roadster made a 137 mile drive at night over U. S. 20 between East Dubuque and Elgin, Ill. Scenes of 199 automobile accidents since Jan. 1, each involving one or more deaths or personal injuries, were inspected.

Safety engineers differ on their explanations for the high accident rate at night. Some blame liquor and fatigue, others faulty headlights. Some say driving speeds are too high.

Several Causes Found.

THE TRIBUNE survey found several accident causes more easily corrected than darkness or the human imperfections of drivers. At night, the darkness accentuated hazards familiar on pavements laid or meandering wagon trails. In addition, hazards were noted that are not apparent in daytime.

About five miles west of Elgin, a filling station as seen from a distance by east bound trafic appeared like a pair of white headlamps. This illusion continued for a mile or so of driving, until the motorist was close enough for the lights to blind him.

Conspicuous in the open country were advertising signs with reflector buttons. This type of billboard must be located where it will catch automobile headlamps. Six miles east of East Dubuque, one stands behind a guard rail on a sharp curve, nullifying the safety advantage of similar reflector buttons on the guard rail.

Five miles west of Freeport, another reflector billboard was found next to a highway department curve sign. Thus a commercial message was competing with a trafic warning for the attention of automobile drivers.

On the whole, however, the scenes of these 119 accidents on U. S. 20 as viewed at night showed the same hazards as when viewed in daylight.

A Concrete Instance.

For example, while a photographer was taking a time exposure of a narrow culvert with heavy concrete sidewalls six miles east of Freeport, a car appeared from the east with one headlamp. The culvert was too narrow for safety in daytime. At night, the sidewalls seemed even closer together. And then along comes this one eyed car.

For another example, there was the absence of markers giving advance notice of a dip in the pavement deep enough to conceal an oncoming car.

Two miles east of Belvidere, THE TRIBUNE photographer's flashlight caught an east bound passenger car about to pass a truck on the approach to one of these pavement depressions. The driver of the passenger car evidently believed the road ahead was clear for him to pass. As a result he had no warning by sign or by pavement strips that there was a crest 200 yards ahead shielding the lights of a west bound automobile.

DEATH ELIXIR KILLS 4 IN TEXAS, RAISING KNOWN TOLL TO FORTY

Four more deaths were traced yesterday to the mysterious medicine known as elixir of sulfanilamide, raising the known total throughout the country to forty. These four occurred in Texas, and were reported by F. D. Brock of Austin, state food and drug official.

Federal, state, and medical association officials are canvassing the nation in an effort to stop the further sale of this particular medicine and to seize 700 bottles yet unaccounted for. The American Medical association, which has headquarters in Chicago, has been receiving many requests for guidance in the emergency from all parts of the country.

The medicine was manufactured in Tennessee and marketed on Sept. 1. The heaviest shipments were made to the south and southwest, but some were made to Illinois, New York, and Northern Michigan.

FIGHT FARLEY'S MAIL HAULING BY TRUCK LINES

Transfer of Contracts from Railroads Hit.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—Transfer of mail carrying contracts from some branch railroad lines in the northwest and in the southwest to trucking companies has been protested by the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

Alexander F. Whitney, president of the organization, which has some 151,000 members, declared tonight that he had sent a letter to Postmaster General James A. Farley, opposing the practice.

Holds Deliveries Delayed.

Mr. Whitney said he learned about three months ago that contracts were taken from branch lines of the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific railroads and he immediately took up the matter with the postmaster general. He was informed, he said, that the railroads were not making deliveries in that territory as per schedule.

"Some serious eliminations on the branch lines there," explained Whitney, "had resulted in freight as well as passenger trains being used to handle mail. That gave the government the opportunity to transfer the contracts. However, even with the changes, the delivery of mail was satisfactory.

Calls Railroads Best Carriers.

"We believe the railroads are the best carriers of mail today. The transfer of contracts would result in the elimination of train centers. This would hurt the general public and numerous small communities as well as meaning loss of jobs for many train crews."

Mr. Whitney said he told Mr. Farley that his organization feels that "the railroads are paying substantial taxes, some 300 million dollars a year, that are beneficial to rural communities, and in the light of this the government should not subsidize trucking lines."

SOMETHING OUGHT TO BE DONE ABOUT THIS

Wall St. to Broadway

PEGGY CLEARY.

New York, Oct. 24.—[Special.]—Blonde Peggy Cleary, Ziegfeld beauty, who took her own advice and made a fortune in the stock market but couldn't buy a seat on the stock exchange because the board of admissions feared there'd be "too much jostling," is deserting the ticker tape for a return to Broadway.

"An ace customer's woman," Miss Cleary will be associated with Paul L. Berney in the immediate production of James Knox Millen's three-character play, "When the Bough Breaks."

Miss Cleary's financial ambitions were jolted in 1928 when, after amassing a fortune in the market, she was refused a $300,000 seat on the exchange.

FATE OF UNIONS MAY BE CAST AT CAPITAL PARLEY

unions and nondues paying members in pursuance of a personal political racket but has accomplished nothing in collective bargaining for the working men.

On the eve of the conference the Washington atmosphere is surcharged with gossip of the real reasons for the peace move made by Mr. Lewis.

One story is that Mr. Lewis sued for a settlement because, following the failure of his drive to organize the independent steel mills and the textile industry and to take Henry Ford's scalp, he faced the crackup of the C. I. O. The break is said to have come at a meeting between Mr. Lewis, Sidney Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, and David Dubinsky, head of the International Ladies' Garment Workers.

Denies Financial Aid.

Mr. Lewis, according to this version, informed his colleagues that his United Mine Workers no longer would be able to carry the principal financial burden of the C. I. O., the organization expenses of which were aggregating $300,000 a month. He asked Messrs. Dubinsky and Hillman to shoulder the load. Both of them refused. Mr. Dubinsky indicated that his union was sick of the C. I. O. and eager to return to the federation fold.

Mr. Hillman, who is known to be "close" to President Roosevelt, is alleged to have informed Mr. Lewis that the President thought a change of leadership in the C. I. O. might be for the better of the labor movement. In high dudgeon Mr. Lewis flounced out of the room. Mr. Hillman's retailing of the presidential attitude is reputed to account for the attack Mr. Lewis made on Mr. Roosevelt during the Atlantic City meeting.

Unfounded, Lewis Says.

Mr. Lewis pronounces these stories unfounded in fact and asserts that the C. I. O. will go on to greater accomplishments whether the peace conference succeeds or fails.

Whatever the fortunes of the C. I. O. the politicians have long expected Mr. Lewis to make a bid for peace with the federation well in advance of the 1940 election. That Mr. Lewis harbors presidential ambitions is no secret. But he no less than others has realized that it would be futile for him to seek the presidency so long as he was at enmity with the federation of labor. So the politicians view his peace overtures as an important move by Mr. Lewis to pave the way for his leadership of a Farmer-Labor party in 1940.

A Farmer-Labor party is being promoted by the communists as the "popular front" to be pitted against capitalism in America in 1940. Mr. Lewis, in whose organization communists are prominent, is favored by the communists for the Farmer-Labor candidate for President. Mr. Lewis pictures the C. I. O. as the nucleus of this movement to obtain political power for labor and put the capitalist system in leading strings by limitation of profits.

Mothers! Treat Children's Colds This Proved Way

More mothers use VapoRub than any other medication of its kind—they have proved it by use in their own homes. It was further proved in the world's largest colds-clinic. No "dosing"—just massage VapoRub on throat, chest, and back at bedtime. Almost at once, its poultice-and-vapor action starts to loosen phlegm, relieve irritation and coughing, help break local congestion. Often, by morning the worst of the cold is over.

NOW'S THE TIME TO GET RID OF LAYER-CAKE HEAT!

AIR FORMS LAYERS—hot at your head but cold at your feet—when your furnace firebox gets cold between firings. Stop-and-go fuels cause this uncomfortable, unhealthful condition. Steady fires of coal or coke prevent Layer-Cake Heat and give you solid comfort.

BUY YOUR COAL OR COKE NOW!

● This is the ideal time to change over to coal or coke—and perhaps install one of those new automatic coal stokers that thousands of home-owners are buying. Stokers give clean, even heat—keep your rooms at the temperature you choose—and fire themselves! They save you lots of money on fuel costs compared to any other automatic burner.

Layer-Cake Heat occurs when the air in your rooms forms into layers that are cold around your feet and hot around your head and shoulders. It is caused by stop-and-go fuels which allow your furnace firebox to get cold between firings. The flow of heat stops. The warm air in the room separates from the cooler air. Layers form. You can't get comfortable, because your feet are cold and your head is "burning up." No wonder you catch cold!

Coal or coke, keeping the firebox always heated, keeps the air in motion. Layers can't form. Floors are comfortably warm, yet the room's not overheated. Your head doesn't feel stuffy or nasal passages parched. Coal or coke prevents Layer-Cake Heat.

Don't let Layer-Cake Heat ruin your comfort this winter. Buy coal or coke now from your local coal merchant. If you're not sure he's a member of the Chicago Coal Merchants Association, call STAte 9723.

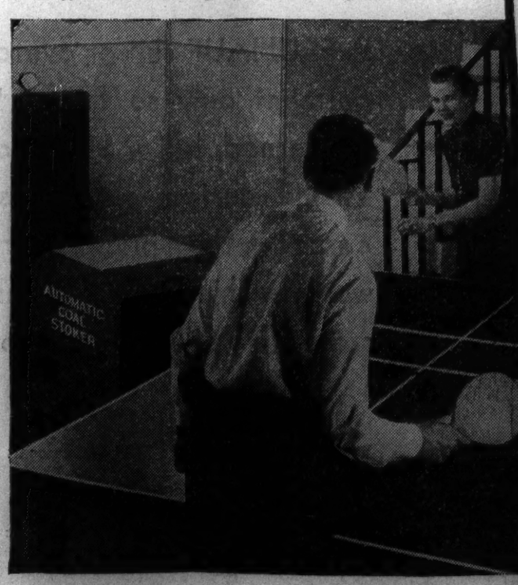
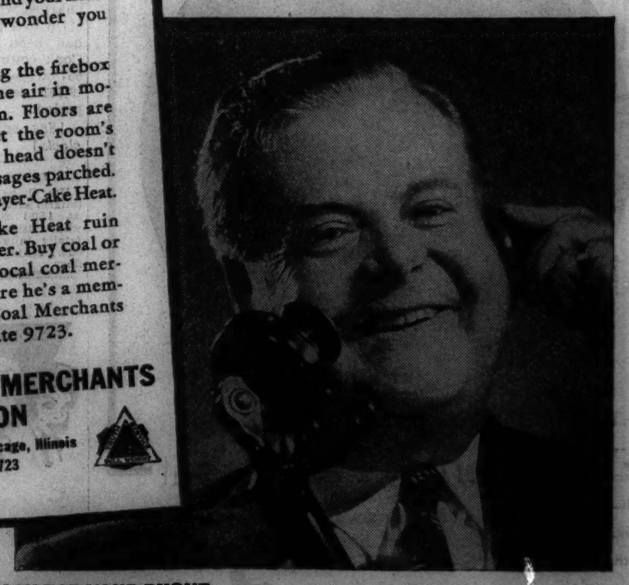
YOUR CHILD LIVES in the lower level that Layer-Cake Heat makes coldest. Children catch cold playing on cold floors. Coal or coke—preventing Layer-Cake Heat—keeps the floors and lower portions of your rooms warm, comfortable, and healthful for your child.



HOW EASY IT IS to operate a coal stoker! You just build one fire each winter. The stoker fires itself thereafter—gives clean, even heat (you choose the temperature)—and saves you money on fuel compared to other automatic types of burners. That's why thousands are buying them.



REACH FOR YOUR PHONE and order your coal or coke now. Ask your local coal merchant about automatic coal stokers, or about money-saving thermostatic controls to give you even heat with a hand-fired furnace. Either can be attached to your present furnace. Full information without obligation.

PARIS PIQUED AT DUKE; GIVES HIM COLD SHOULDER

Public Ignores His Return from German Tour.

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 24.—Piqued by the duke of Windsor's flirtation with Germany and uneasy over rumors picturing Edward as a Fascist propagandist, Paris today gave the royal wanderer and his duchess the cold shoulder on their arrival from Munich. Friends wondered if it foreshadowed the sort of welcome Edward and Wally will get on their forthcoming American tour.

In any case, from the moment the couple stepped off the train after their "sociological" tour of Germany, it was clear to Edward that he will not need the services of any agency, such as the one he has hired for the American trip, to insure his privacy in Paris. The station crowd paid little attention to the Windsors, and the few persons who did cluster around were not demonstrative. Edward appeared tired and peevish. Wally flashed a mechanically perfect smile, but the reaction was slight.

Press Takes No Notice.

The same popular apathy was manifested on the Windsors' arrival at Hotel Meurice, where, because the duke was virtually in a state of physical collapse from the whirlwind pace of his German tour, they canceled a dinner engagement and remained in their suite.

The press was as indifferent as the station crowd, the newspapers not even informing their readers whether the couple had arrived.

The public attitude recalled a recent occurrence in a French movie theater, when an almost unanimous "horse laugh" greeted the showing of a newsreel in which Edward sat with a bored expression listening to a concert in a factory.

Suspicion has been aroused in France that, as the result of the "social appeasement" movement with which his name is linked, the duke is on the way of becoming the "first traveling salesman of a Fascist internationale."

Edward's behavior toward his admirers has helped to turn the French public against him.

Rebuke to Crowd Disclosed.

THE TRIBUNE learns that before the Windsors left for Berlin the duke, annoyed at a crowd which followed him and Wally to a dress shop, turned and shouted a rebuke, the precise English translation of which is unprintable. At best it is a coarse paraphrase for: "Get to hell out of here." This is not the kind of language a crowd likes to hear from royalty, especially in front of women.

What sociological discoveries Edward made in Germany was not disclosed, but a member of his entourage revealed the duke was annoyed at his close chaperonage, which prevented him from straying to things he was not supposed to see.

TWO COWBOYS HURT WHEN THEIR BUCKING HORSES THROW THEM

Two performers at the world championship rodeo in the Chicago Stadium were injured when thrown from bucking horses at yesterday's matinée. They are Elmer Martin of Okmulgee, Okla., who suffered a fracture of the right ankle, and Thomas Shipman of Butte, Mont., whose right arm was fractured. Shipman was the fifth performer to suffer a broken arm since the rodeo opened Oct. 14. The rodeo, which attracted a record crowd of 17,000 Saturday night, will close Oct. 31.

With the opening of Pershing road between Halsted street and Ashland avenue yesterday the dream of southside residents became a reality and old odoriferous Bubbly creek, which formerly occupied the present roadbed between Halsted street and Racine avenue, became just a memory.

Ald. Connelly cutting ribbon.

Ald. Hugh C. Connelly [11th], in whose ward the improvement is located, cut a ribbon barrier permitting a large motor cavalcade to cross the viaduct over the Chicago Junction railroad tracks at Racine avenue, the last link in the project. The total cost of filling in the creek and constructing the road is estimated at approximately $1,700,000. The work was done by the state highway department with the aid of federal funds.

The new road provides the only east-west thoroughfare between 35th and 47th streets. Nearly thirty years ago a movement was started to fill in Bubbly creek, which carried sewage from the packing plants in the stockyards, and to build a road in its place. In September, 1920, an ordinance was passed providing for the project.

None of the money spent on the project was provided by the city, and last night state highway department workers were ordered to paint out the name of Ald. Connelly, which had been painted on each end of the bridges for yesterday's celebration.

CHARGES TRUANT HUSBAND CARVES INITIALS ON GIRL

New York, Oct. 24.—[Special.]—Accused of carving his initials in the leg of his girl friend, William K. Sealey Jr., a philandering husband, was held in $10,000 bail today on a charge of felonious assault. The complainant was Dorothy Heintjes, 21, a homeless, penniless girl who told Magistrate Anthony Savarese the operation took place two weeks ago.

Most of the background of the oddly-punctuated romance came from Mrs. Julia Van Winkle, landlady of a rooming house where the girl is staying.

"That fellow Sealey brought her here a week ago," Mrs. Van Winkle said. "He said he was her brother and paid a week's rent for her. Last Friday she swallowed poison. They gave her emergency treatment at a hospital. They asked her why she did it and she told them. Then she showed me the brand. It's high up on her right thigh. The initials are three inches high. She said he cut them with a razor blade after they had been drinking in his apartment and she passed out.

GREEK PRELATE AND ENVOY LEAD FETE IN CHICAGO

Archbishop Athenagoras of New York, head of the Greek Orthodox church in North and South America, offered jubilee mass yesterday at Holy Trinity church, 1101 South Peoria street. The church was dedicated forty years ago, and this event is being celebrated by the 25,000 in Chicago's Greek-American colony. Present at the mass was Dr. Demetrios Sicilianos, Greek minister to the United States.

In the evening both addressed a meeting of members of the Greek community at Medinah temple. The three day celebration will close tomorrow.

Father Beaten; Son Held; Defended Mother, He Says

George Deyo, 25 years old, 2219 Giddings street, was being held by North Damen avenue police yesterday pending the outcome of an injury to his father, George Deyo Sr. Deyo and his mother appeared at the station Saturday and reported that the son had struck the father on the head with a hammer in defense of the mother. The elder Deyo's skull was fractured.

Suffocated When Match Sets Frame Cottage Afire

Patrick Mahin, 26 years old, an electric welder, was suffocated in his home at 208 East 136th place yesterday by a fire which spread through the one and a half story frame cottage. Chief James Walsh of the 17th battalion said Mahin apparently had dropped a lighted match while replacing a fuse in the basement. Mahin's wife and two children were away visiting relatives.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

TRYING

By CALEB

A GENTLEMAN wrote me recently that at high noon on Wabash Avenue he met a man from our custom shoe department. Our Mr. X, recognizing what appeared to be a package of shoes, spoke to his customer by name, and learning he was heading for the Store for Men, Mr. X retraced his steps. "Mr. X preferred to return and serve me, rather than go on for his lunch," the gentleman writes.

Another customer has praised highly the Field Flyer who helped her make emergency purchases in a dozen sections in about an hour.

A man almost gushes his appreciation of the personal shopper who selected an outfit for him to take to his sister. "It was superb."

The woman whose carpeting in the hall went awry—and who was cared for "on time" in spite of expense and inconvenience to ourselves, compliments our service.

Hundreds of times a day, people here go to extraordinary lengths to render service, out of fervor for the Field idea and sheer good-will toward our customers.

If our ideal could be met, no persons would ever leave this store in any way dissatisfied if it were at all within reason for us to serve them with exactly what they came in seeking.

For that end, this vast store exists. For that end, our organization has been shaped. For that end, our vast stocks are available and our world-wide contacts established.

All of our thousands of employes have not learned well how to live up to our ideal. The centipede steps sometimes on its own heels. But the dominating idea here among most of us is to keep on trying. In other words, our spirit is such that we have never felt the New York street-car conductor should have given up so easily.

He approached a passenger who was reading the newspaper.

"Hey, you," he growled, "you wanted the Chrysler Building, didn't you? Well, come out and get it. I can't bring it in to you."

MOBILE X-RAY WAGES WAR ON TUBERCULOSIS

Unit Will Begin Round of Schools Today.

In a further effort to combat tuberculosis among Chicago's school children, Mayor Kelly announced yesterday that a traveling X-ray unit will be put into use today. The unit will be taken from school to school under auspices of the Chicago Tuberculosis institute and the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium.

The mobile unit, mounted on a truck, consists of a completely equipped X-ray machine capable of taking 400 plates a day, dressing rooms, lead lined dark rooms and bulkhead to protect the operator. An X-ray technician, nurse, and chauffeur will comprise the crew.

Dr. Frederick Tice, president of the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium, explained that last year 27,490 school children were given tuberculin tests and that 4,088 reacted and were given X-ray examination, advice and treatment free of charge. The unit will be put in operation today at the Spaulding school for crippled children. Mayor Kelly and other officials will see the machine put into operation.

MOTHER, TWO SISTERS WILL HEAR MONTAGUE DENY HOLDUP CHARGE

Elizabethtown, N. Y., Oct. 24.—(AP)—The elderly mother and two sisters of Hollywood's John Montague will come into a little Adirondack mountain court room tomorrow to hear the golfer extraordinary conclude his fight for acquittal on a seven year old robbery charge.

Miss Harriett Hana.

It will be the first time the husky companion of motion picture actors has seen members of his Syracuse, N. Y., family since late in August, when he obtained freedom on $25,000 bail after pleading innocent to the $700 looting of Kin Hana's roadhouse in 1930.

The state concluded its case late Friday. Miss Harriett Hana, daughter of the roadhouse keeper, testified she had heard one of Montague's accomplices on the night of the holdup call him "Verne." He was known as Laverne Moore before he won golfing fame.

Montague attended mass early today and then went for a stroll.

ELGIN HOSPITAL BUILDING NAMED FOR DR. GAHAGAN

State and Kane county officials and medical leaders yesterday extolled the memory of Dr. Henry J. Gahagan, noted psychiatrist, at the dedication of a new $128,000 building at the Elgin State hospital. The building, where new mental treatments will be advanced, was formally named the Gahagan cottage.

Among the speakers were Mrs. Blanche Fritz, assistant director of the state department of public welfare; Dr. Francis Gerty, superintendent of the Cook County Psychopathic hospital; Judges Olney C. Allen and Harry C. Daniels, and Dr. Charles F. Read, head of the Elgin hospital.

The lauded Dr. Gahagan as a leader in his profession, and as a humanitarian. Dr. Gahagan was killed in an auto accident last November. As superintendent of the state hospital years ago, he developed many improvements in the treatment of mental cases that are now in universal use.

DEWEY, RACKETS FOE, LINKS THUGS WITH TAMMANY

Nominee for Prosecutor Lashes Mahoney Aids.

New York, Oct. 24.—[Special.]—Two powerful Tammany Hall district leaders, Albert Marinelli and James J. Hines, today were brought in to the campaign limelight under dramatic circumstances by Thomas E. Dewey, Republican nominee for district attorney of New York county, and Mayor F. H. La Guardia.

Mr. Dewey, in a radio speech, pictured Marinelli, New York county clerk and Democratic leader in the 2d assembly district, as the ally and protector of racketeers. He charged Marinelli's powerful personal political machine in the lower east side was recruited from thugs, dope peddlers, and gangsters of New York's underworld. He said he could name thirty-two of Marinelli's county committeemen and inspectors of elections in the district who had police records.

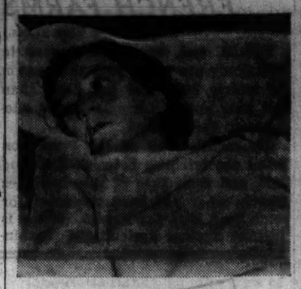
These charges by Mr. Dewey, coupled with Mayor La Guardia's pointed reference to Hines a few hours earlier, indicated they are trying to compel Jeremiah T. Mahoney, his Tammany opponent, to say whether he is a candidate of the Tammany system, or repudiates Tammany Hall in his candidacy.

In the mayor's reference to Hines, staunch friend of Postmaster General James A. Farley, he turned sharply upon Samuel J. Foley, Democratic nominee for reëlection as district attorney of the Bronx.

Mr. La Guardia said he had indorsed Mr. Foley upon definite assurance that Mr. Foley would not permit Hines to "cross the Harlem river," and that he now had reason to believe that Mr. Foley had sold out that pledge.

Senator Robert S. Wagner has spoken for Mahoney. When Secretary H. L. Ickes was in New York to dedicate a $30,000,000 sewage disposal plant he praised La Guardia.

SHOT IN HOSPITAL



[Associated Press Wirephoto.]
MRS. LEONARD COMPTON.

Springfield, O., Oct. 24.—(AP)—"I'm sorry I didn't kill her," Leonard Compton, 23 years old, told police questioning him regarding the firing of shots last night at his wife in the maternity ward at the city hospital, where she gave birth to a son a week ago.

Leonard Compton.

One of the bullets wounded Mrs. Compton in the left wrist. Four other women, all maternity cases, were in the ward, but were unhurt.

Police said Compton asked Mrs. Compton who the infant's father was, and started shooting when she failed to reply. Mrs. Compton, 20 years old, said she has been estranged from her husband since June 13, but that he is the father of the child.

ROSS HOME DARK FOR FIRST NIGHT SINCE KIDNAPING

All lights in the apartment of Charles S. Ross, 2912 Commonwealth avenue, were doused at 12:30 o'clock this morning for the first time at night since he was kidnaped four weeks ago. The lights had burned at night without interruption as Mrs. Ross and friends maintained their vigil.

Whether the darkening of the apartment held any significance could not be learned. Observers took it to mean that temporarily, at least, and for the first time, the family vigil was ended. It was noted that the federal men who had been staying in the apartment left at 8:30 p. m., taking with them telephone-like apparatus.

Nothing has been heard from Ross since he was kidnaped, although a ransom of $50,000 has been paid. Government men are trying to trace the bills. Reports that a suspect was arrested yesterday in Marion, O., were scotched when police there identified the man as an alleged counterfeiter.

ENVOY IS HONOR GUEST OF DINNER OF SONS OF ITALY

Ambassador Fulvio Suvich of Italy was inducted as an honorary member of the Order of the Sons of Italy in America at a banquet in the Medinah club last night. More than 600 persons attended. Many of them are attending the 15th convention of the order here.

Signor Suvich addressed the gathering in Italian. The Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, auxiliary bishop of Chicago, also spoke, and public officials were at the speakers' table.

A reception and concert was given in the afternoon in the Ashalnd Boulevard auditorium by Italians of the city for the envoy and his wife, Donna Mathilde di Suvich. They will visit the stockyards today, then leave for Washington after a dinner at the Palmer house tonight.

WOMAN RENEWS HER ATTACKS ON KANSAS' STERILIZING OF GIRLS

Hays, Kas., Oct. 24.—(AP)—Home from a conference of Democratic women where she stirred a controversy over sterilization of girls at the Kansas State Correctional school at Beloit, Mrs. Kathryn McCarthy, former Democratic congresswoman, continued her attacks on policies of the school.

"These operations were not performed in private hospitals at Beloit," Mrs. McCarthy asserted, "but were performed by a Kansas City, Mo., doctor at the hospital for venereal disease at the state penitentiary at Lansing.

"Fifty-four girls were sterilized and eight unsexed, one of the last named being a girl nine years old. The records at the school do not show the girls were imbeciles or had a venereal disease. One of the girls listed for sterilization is shown to have an intelligence quotient of 102."

CITY GETS DUST COAT OF 14,000 TONS IN MONTH

Blame Smoke for Quarter of Blanket.

Fourteen thousand tons of dust, nearly a quarter of it consisting of carbon and tar from Chicago's smoke, descended upon the city last month. Frank A. Chambers, head of the city smoke abatement department, who made this announcement yesterday, said the figures are obtained from the twenty-two stations maintained by the department in all neighborhoods. Jars are set out in the open to catch the dust that falls, and the contents are weighed and analyzed in a laboratory.

Trying to Educate Public.

"Last month was clean in comparison with last February, when some 29,000 tons of dust fell in the city," Mr. Chambers said. "In line with the improvement over past years we are trying to educate the public to correct firing methods that will cut down Chicago's cleaning bill."

Some neighborhoods are five times as dirty as others, Mr. Chambers' studies show. The testing station recording the most dust is at 3606 Ogden avenue, in an industrial area, where the amount was 133 tons per square mile. The cleanest location was at the station at 7350 Pratt avenue, in open country near the city limits, where the rate was only 19.8 tons per square mile.

How Stations Compare.

Here is the list of other stations and the tons per square mile of dust indicated by their samples:

22 West Monroe street	111.9
Adams and Dearborn streets	105.0
2211 South Wabash avenue	77.6
33 North La Salle street	95.8
819 East 45th street	83.7
Rosenwald museum	61.2
7325 Jeffery avenue	53.3
65 West 113th place	53.3
8858 Marquette avenue	71.1
2242 West 37th street	71.8
6320 South Claremont avenue	107.2
7557 Eggleston avenue	77.3
1620 West 99th street	56.7
1340 Monroe street	93.0
5055 Fulton street	47.7
1513 North Western avenue	56.7
5606 Belden avenue	49.2
3312 Belle Plaine avenue	43.2
3300 Seminary avenue	43.9
1622 Pratt boulevard	43.2

The figures are far below those of former years, because of improvements in fuel burning equipment and firing methods. There are now ninety-one railroad locomotives powered by Diesel engines instead of steam in the city yards, and the use of relatively smokeless fuels has spread among home owners.

TAXICAB DRIVER SHOT TWICE BY HIS PASSENGER

James Martin, 37 years old, 428 West 58th street, a Yellow Cab chauffeur, and a trustee of the Yellow Cab branch of the Chicago Taxicab Drivers' union, local No. 777, was shot twice today by a mysterious assassin.

The shooting occurred in front of 920 South Fairfield avenue. The gunman was a passenger whom Martin had picked up at Madison and Market streets. The passenger, a well dressed man about 35 years old, told Martin to drive him to the Fairfield avenue address.

As Martin stopped there, the man alighted, then opened the front door of the taxicab and fired a shot which grazed Martin's right ankle. Martin sped away, but received another shot, this one in the right shoulder. The gunman escaped. Martin told police that although he was connected with the union he was not active in it.

LUCAS COUNSELS CAUTION IN U. S. PEACE PROGRAM

Mason City, Ill., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—Addressing a meeting of Spanish war veterans here today, Congressman Scott W. Lucas, a possible candidate for the United States senate next year, demanded that caution be made the watchword of this country if it is to "negotiate in the fields of international anarchy which now rears its ugly head on foreign soil."

"I am in accord with the idea of peace expressed in the President's quarantine speech at Chicago," he said, "but if it becomes necessary to implement the program of the President through military force, then, as one member of congress, I shall use all of my power in legislative debate and in the public forum to keep America from becoming embroiled in another world catastrophe."

BIG GIFTS SWELL COMMUNITY FUND CAMPAIGN TOTAL

Several large gifts were announced at Community Fund headquarters yesterday, following issuance of a statement that the current drive had passed the million dollar mark at the week-end.

The largest individual gift reported, that of Marshall Field & Co., totaled $20,000. Three other gifts of $5,000 each brought the total to $35,000 for the day. These contributions were made by the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company, the Chicago Bridge and Iron Works, and the Viking corporation.

Further large contributions have been received, according to Roy C. Ingersoll, industrial division chairman, but will not be announced until the second report meeting tomorrow noon at the Palmer house.

HORSES STAGING A COMEBACK ON FRENCH FARMS

[Copyright: 1937: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Oct. 24.—Farm horses in Normandy are being sold this season for nearly $40 more per head than last year and the supply is not adequate to the demand.

Six month foals of the Percheron breed are fetching between $100 and $150, and their rate of sale indicates clearly what has been suspected for some time, that the French farmer is turning against agricultural machinery and that the horse is coming back into its own.

There are many reasons. First of these is the high price of gasoline in France. The second, according to reports, is that the upkeep and replacement of agricultural machinery, which is mainly of American origin, is expensive in France. The third is that artificial fertilizer is expensive, and, in the opinion of Normandy farmers, horse manure gives better results.

Where a few years ago tractors were to be seen, plowng again is being done with horse and oxen teams, especially on the smaller farms.

PORTER'S POLITE WITH NO DIME IN SIGHT; WINS $5

Brightens Dreary Day for Crippled Woman.

BY MARCIA WINN.

A railroad station waiting room is a desolate place, especially when it is nearly empty, with the rain pouring down outside.

Horace Coleman.

This was the case in the Polk street station when a bent little woman with gray hair hobbled out of a telephone booth, fastened her worn coat of dark green wool and, grasping a cane in each hand, began to walk.

Picking up a heavy coat from a bench, she maneuvered it over one arm. Across the other she hung a knitting bag. Then, aided by her canes, she began her painful progress toward the street door.

Discouraged by Two Steps.

Every step or so she came to a complete halt, as she readjusted coat, knitting bag and canes. When she came to the two steps leading down to the door, she paused a long time.

A group of red cap porters, loitering near the door, eyed the woman's progress with apathetic stares.

Finally, as she reached the bottom step, a middle aged porter with the numerals 23 black and bold above the black bill of his red cap, his eyes masked by thick lensed spectacles, came into the vestibule.

Without hesitation he came forward to open the door for her, but his hand impeded one of her canes. Noting this, he stepped through and opened it from the outside.

He's Careful About Cab.

Did she want a cab? She counted the money in her purse and nodded. The porter waved and a cabbie drove up with a great burst of speed and noise to stop some 16 inches from the curbing.

'Nawsuh," directed Redcap No. 23, "this lady here can't walk much . . . come in a little closer . . . still closer," he insisted, as the driver again came to a stop. "Fix it so she won't have to step down."

Then he went back to the bent little woman, guided her to the cab, and held her canes while he assisted her in. With a wide smile and the bow of a cavalier, he closed the door and waved the driver on with a flourish.

For this reason, Redcap No. 23, who is Horace Coleman, 4629 Prairie avenue, a colored man who has been a porter in the station for the last 10 of his 48 years, today receives THE TRIBUNE'S weekly $5 politeness award.

$25,000 Fire in Green Bay; Desnoyer Building Burns

SHIPS SINK AS GALES LASH EUROPE'S COAST; SAILORS ARE RESCUED

LONDON, Oct. 24. — (AP) — Gales raged around the British isles and off the coast of the Netherlands after more than 24 hours of wind and high seas that cut a wide trail of damage.

Many rescues occurred at sea. A lifeboat fought through the night to reach the royal airforce target vessel Lady Windsor, which was in distress off north Wales. The crew was taken off before the ship went aground.

The Norwegian steamer Aarsten was wrecked 80 miles off Ijmuiden, the Netherlands, but the crew of nine was saved. The crew of the Swedsh steamer Axel, in distress off Terschelling Island, the Netherlands, was saved by a German vessel. During the storm the liner Manchester Regiment collided with the steamer Clan MacKenzie near the Mersey Bar lightship. The Clan MacKenzie sank. The crew was saved.

WOMEN JURORS LOOK FORWARD TO LOVE NOTES

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—Mrs. Anna Hahn's trial for the murder of Jacob Wagner, 68 years old, probably will continue tomorrow despite the failure of defense attorney Joseph Hoodin to recover from an illness that postponed the trial yesterday.

The 11 women and one man in the jury today separated in two groups long enough to attend the St. Louis Catholic church and the Covenant First Presbyterian church this morning. So popular are various members of the jury that the women deputies are kept busy during these sallies into churches explaining to women members of the congregation that their friends in the jury cannot sit with them.

After their sightseeing bus ride and dinner tonight in the Mariemont Inn, in a suburb of Cincinnati, the jurors can go back to their rooms in the Metropole hotel and look forward to the letters of love which will be read them tomorrow. They were written by Mrs. Hahn to Albert Palmer, 72, a suitor of hers, who witnesses testified Friday was exceptionally robust before he knew Anna and planned a trip to Florida with her. Before he could start he became ill and died.

As part of their attempt to show Anna Hahn followed a fixed plan in the murder of Wagner for money and as they charge she did in the case of three other elderly men now dead, the state is expected to produce evidence tomorrow that Palmer died of arsenic poisoning.

Palmer's body was disinterred secretly three weeks ago, in the presence of police investigators and two persons who had known him in his life time, his viscera removed and analyzed, with positive arsenic findings, according to the town's gossip.

Prosecutors declare they will prove he died of arsenic poisoning.

WOMAN, 64, DIES AT DANCE.

Mrs. Mary Slad, 64 years old, 2848 West 25th place, died of a heart attack Saturday night while attending a dance at 2044 West North avenue.

CONSCRIPTION OF INDUSTRIES.

The various attempts in congress to pass an industrial mobilization and conscription bill have been persistently and vigorously supported for several years. None has been pressed to go the last mile as yet, but there is no question in any one's mind. The program has not been given up. Some sort of a law to prevail in national emergencies will be sought. Supporters of the proposals have divergent ideas and varied motives, but they find common ground here and there.

The thing that makes the proposals dangerous is a popular belief in a war demonology composed of munition makers, profiteers, international bankers, and soulless wizards who somehow control decisions of governments and the destinies of nations and then grow fat upon the sacrifices of other people. Among the supporters is the American Legion, which represents an important adherence standing for patriotism and national welfare. The Legion advocates are mistaken, but that fact only increases the danger that a bad law may be enacted.

Some of the ideas underlying the industrial mobilization and conscription proposals were worked out in the neutrality legislation, a much simpler undertaking which in itself has proved the difficulty and impracticability of blindly anticipating a future event of unknown elements. We have a law that applies in Spain but not in China. The protests of our cotton growers against the suggestion of a boycott including their staple is evidence of the political forces that must be dealt with when such legislation gets out of theories and into realities.

The proposed wartime mobilization and conscription may be thought of as a further projection of the neutrality idea, both being presumed to be anti-war measures. The former has more import this year than it has had in others because the makings of a national emergency have been brought to the front recently by Mr. Roosevelt's speeches and his willingness to enter a European conference seeking means to check Japan and drive its military forces out of China. The danger of that procedure to the peace of the United States has been discussed. The dangers to domestic economy resulting from the recognition of a national emergency created by intervention in Asia are revealed in the purposes of the conscription bills, which could be used by an administration taking an international situation as an excuse for the rapid seizure of American sources of production.

What the proposers of industrial mobilization and conscription want is the power to commandeer all industries, including management, to fix quotas of production, to establish prices, hours and wages, to put all executives under military regulations, make failures or alleged recalcitrancies punishable as military offenses and gain the ends of a sovietized revolution under the assertion of an emergency without bothering with such makeshifts as AAA, NRA, TVA, and the rest of the alphabet. In brief, they seek an organization fashioned on the lines of communist Russia.

Conscription of labor as well as of management walks in and out of these proposals. A natural fear of political consequences probably will keep a direct application of labor conscription out of the proposals in the end, but it will be there by the necessary operation of price and wage and hour fixing and government determination of what may be produced and in what quantities and where.

Probably American people think that no such extraordinary makeover of their industrial, financial, and general economic structure can possibly come to pass. In that belief they are ignoring the psychology of a drummed up national emergency, with war alarms upsetting the normal balance. They should remember the last war and its governmental controls.

AFTER AN ACQUITTAL.

The jury which acquitted New Jersey's girl in red has left the world to speculate on what constitutes fitness for jury duty in that state.

The young woman told of going riding in an automobile with a Mr. Reeves and of his brutal passion. He overcame her with force, she said. Later she found herself with child. Still later she had an appointment to call upon him when he was alone in his home. Before paying the call she slipped a revolver into her coat pocket because she was afraid he might overpower her again. When her worst fears seemed about to be realized, she explained, she killed him.

Evidently it seemed quite natural to the jury that the young woman went alone to the home of a man whose brutality she had already experienced. The taking of the pistol was nothing more than a reasonable precaution. The foreman of the jury explained after the trial that some of the jurors at the first ballot weren't sure she shot in self-defense, but all of them finally discovered a reasonable doubt on the point which they were obliged to resolve in her favor.

It was not the only doubt that the trial has raised. An inquiry into the influences which produced this verdict might go a long way toward enlightening the public on the processes of criminal justice in some jurisdictions.

PARASITES ON LABOR.

The fatal shooting last week of a C. I. O. organizer by another organizer is only the latest evidence of how the labor movement has become the victim of gangsters, racketeers, and agitators bent upon creating disorder for their own advantage. These parasites have no regard for the lawful progress of the labor movement or the welfare of the rank and file of wage earners. They are in the game for themselves and they do not stop at any method that seems profitable at the moment. They are in fact not representatives of labor, although they have induced labor organizations to give them official standing of lesser or greater degree.

Coöperating with these parasites are the radicals, many of them aliens, who wish to seize political power for the purpose of destroying American institutions and setting up a communist despotism in which of course they expect to enjoy special privileges and unlimited authority, as the commissars do in Russia. This invasion of communism in the higher direction of the American labor movement has had the favor of the present national régime, which has restored relations with the communist régime in Moscow, greeted its emissary with cordiality, and shown a brazen partisanship for the most radical leadership in American labor. The lawless acts of the C. I. O., which is notoriously revolutionary in sympathy and the makeup of its leadership, have been given moral support by silence where there should have been rebuke, inaction where there should have been prompt and stern enforcement of law, and even by connivance with violence in the interest of a favored faction.

In these circumstances it is no wonder that the high purposes of lawful organization for the advancement of the wage earner have been perverted and his welfare more and more ignored. The parasites on labor, the racketeer, the gunman, the Red plotters of rioting and disorder, the ambitious leaders who dream of political power and their allies and supporters who would destroy American democracy, are the enemies of the American labor movement while they claim to be a part of it.

THE FATE OF MINORITIES.

Minorities are having a rough time of it in the world today. Even in Great Britain, where matters have not yet gone to extremes, and in the Labor party, which might be expected to be jealous, at this stage of its progress, of minority rights, there is protest against the spirit of its majority wing. "Some Labor leaders," says George Lansbury, M. P. and leader of the pacifist minority, "appear to imagine that democracy in Britain is dead. They claim that the majority has control of the minds and actions of the minorities. If democracy is to live in the world, religious, political, industrial, and social organizations must be tolerant of minorities. A socialism which tries to control thought and speech is the very worst form of dictatorship."

That is a home thrust. In Russia socialism has been in control for twenty years and it has erected a power more suppressive of minorities than any of the dictatorships in Europe. Mr. Lansbury is a militant socialist and he has not yet foreseen that no socialist state will suffer minorities once it is in power. Meanwhile he declares that "in spite of all this triumphant boasting concerning the great majority vote for armaments at Norwich I know there are many millions on the other side," and he proposes to go on resisting with all his might the policy approved by the majority.

We in America have heard much of late about the mandate of majorities and the urgent need of getting rid of the obstructions our constitutional principles and the court which applies them sometimes interpose against the immediate expression of the majority will. If we listen to this voice it will not be long before minorities will no longer exist to stay our march to the more abundant life.

OGDEN MILLS' MISFORTUNE.
[Kansas City Star.]

It was Ogden Mills' great misfortune that he was born into a family of large wealth. That fact counted against him heavily at a time when his wise and liberal counsel should have had wide influence. Mr. Mills was by no means a standpatter. He regarded the reactionary position as the extreme of stupidity. His writings since the depression outlined a sanely progressive program. But his arguments were discounted in advance because the tag of "economic royalist" could so easily be applied to the author.

As undersecretary and then secretary of the treasury under President Hoover, Mr. Mills became recognized as an authority on finance. At the Cleveland convention last year some farm leaders proposed to work out a currency plank for the Republican platform. Convention leaders, anxious to please them and at the same time to obtain a plank that would be sound, asked them to permit Ogden Mills to sit in their meeting.

They reluctantly consented, with private denunciation at having anything to do with the head of what they called "the Mills gang." After their long conference a reporter asked their leader what he thought of Mills. "I was dead wrong about that man," was the reply. "He was smart, reasonable, and sincere in helping to work something out. And none of us could see that he was trying to put anything over on us."

That was Ogden Mills—level headed, fair, keen, liberal, devoted unselfishly to his country's welfare. The stilling of his voice at this time is a great national loss.

THAT "UNREAL" PAINTING.
[Boston Herald.]

The national park service is correct, of course, in pronouncing the well known painting of "Washington Crossing the Delaware" by Emanuel Leutze "completely lacking in realism." There is nothing new in that criticism. Many times before it has been said that John Glover would have ordered the commander in chief to sit down in the bow of the foremost boat in that desperate venture of Christmas night in 1776. The sailing master and fisherman of Marblehead whose "amphibious regiment" manned the boats and led the advance would not have tolerated any such foolish pose, nor for that matter would Washington have taken any such position.

All the same, the picture has well served several generations of young Americans, and there is no reason why it should not continue to do so. It is an inspirational conception.

A photograph would have shown a very different scene, but on the night of the crossing the tide was running fast and the river was full of ice floes, the wind was high, and the cold intense. It took nine hours for the fishermen to get the troops across. It was a daring stroke, terribly needed to put new hopes into the hearts of the discouraged patriots.

The spirit of the enterprise does live in that canvas by Leutze. No other than the English historian Trevelyan says: "It may be doubted whether so small a number of men ever employed so short a space of time with greater and more lasting results on the history of the world."

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

BECAUSE SWEDISH RESTAURANTS have always seemed at best a little puzzling, we spent some time gathering information on one. And we learned that if any one's to have the blame, or the credit, it should be the Vikings, who never knew when to go home, and the Americans, who didn't trust the waiter when he said the main course would be good, too. Vikings were always dropping in on relatives and staying all winter because their boats got frozen in. The relatives eventually made some pointed remarks about the grocer's bill. Next year Eric and his men brought their own food. More considerate guests began bringing rare delicacies. House guests became popular. The more delicacies they brought the longer they stayed. Their pickled herring, fancy cheese, and preserved fruit were put on a side table and called smörgasbord. The host was glad to furnish the main course.

Swedish people who came to America seldom thought of going into the restaurant business; those who did often failed. Those who succeeded offered such good smörgasbord that the Americans gobbled it and neglected the main course. If it didn't seem sensible, grocery bills were lower that way. The restaurant men thought up more smörgasbord dishes to make the bills lower still. About twelve years ago Mrs. Nordstrand opened A Bit of Sweden on Rush street. She discovered, too, that Americans liked to fill up on smörgasbord; sometimes they couldn't eat the rest of the dinner. She said nothing, but added more appetizers. Now you may if you wish have a meal of them and nothing else.

Swedish Americans, who like to eat at home, never would have kept her in business, although they have their wedding feasts at her place. She got more patronage, indeed, from the French, who say the Swedish cooks got all their best ideas from France anyway. Germans like her Swedish food, too, says Mrs. Nordstrand, but run of the mine Americans are her best customers. Few come two days in succession.

You needn't stumble over smörgasbord; she says it as you do, rather as if it were smorgusboard. Hers takes twenty pounds of pickled herring a day, two whole hams, 20 quarts of herring salad, four large lake trout, eight to ten tins of anchovies, a dozen of sardines, and a great deal of cheese: four pounds of goat, six of peasant, ten of strong American. She smiles when she mentions the thirty molds of fruit her patrons eat a day; they're not Swedish food, but Americans demand them. Six cooks, all natives of Sweden, were getting lunch: Freda, Marie, Lida, Emma, Elizabeth, and Mary. They make everything, pickling the herring and baking the Swedish pastry.

Mrs. Nordstrand's architect husband built the restaurant, next door to her first one. She got the oaken peasant tables made in Sweden, where the order puzzled the modern manufacturers. An old Swedish lady, Karolina Svensson, spends all her time over in the village of Ljungby [population 101] weaving the pink and blue table cloths. She writes Mrs. Nordstrand once in a while to run over to Brooklyn for something advertised in a Brooklyn paper that finds its way to Ljungby, and thinks Mrs. Nordstrand abrupt for saying Brooklyn's too far. The blind colored girl who polishes the restaurant's copper has learned Swedish and speaks it better than the cooks.

Mrs. Nordstrand says families in Sweden still have smörgasbord at holiday times, although nothing so elaborate as she serves. They don't try to eat everything, but take a little of this and of that. You can get the same things in Stockholm restaurants, she says, but they're too expensive to be put out for customers to take their choice. You tell the waiter and he brings some to your table. She's proud of the pewter mugs and dishes on the walls, of the Swedish murals her husband did, and of the quiet, homelike atmosphere. Her Swedish aquavit, she recommends, and the hot punch she makes at Christmas time, but she thinks Americans will always prefer cocktails.

LINES TO JAY G. SIGMUND.

He sang of hills and fields and earthy things,
Of furrowed rows all ready for the seed.
He wrote in cadence rich of harvest time
And of the reaping of the bounteous mead
Of good things from the bosom of the soil.
His was, indeed, a lush and fertile theme.
You rode with him along the ridge at night
And felt the rightness of the whole earth's scheme.

How very meet that Death should seek him out
There in those woods he loved so knowing well,
With Autumn's pageant for the draperies
To wrap him in that couch on which he fell.
And with the rising of the Hunter's Moon
To light his spirit down the valley's trail.
Farewell, rare singer of fine songs,
We'll miss your telling of a Winter's Tale!

OXYGEN—A VALUABLE AID IN PNEUMONIA.

EVERY one wants to know about pneumonia: What it is, what it does, and particularly why it causes so many deaths, for it is one of the principal destroyers of life.

It is easy enough to say what it does. It fills the air sacs with an accumulation of cells and solid materials from the blood which plug these structures, thus preventing oxygen from reaching the tissues. The whole mass jellies or coagulates, obliterating one or more parts of the lung. Fortunately it does not affect all of the air distributing machinery at the same time. If it did, suffocation would follow quickly. But it may shut off a quarter or more of the space, throwing a heavy burden on the remaining portion.

A goodly part of the suffering is accounted for by the fact that the blood is oxygen hungry and, deprived of this vital gas, other organs simply cannot carry on. We may say, then, that pneumonia is an acute inflammation of the lungs which brings on oxygen starvation because anywhere from one-tenth to one-half of the lung area may be out of commission temporarily.

While it may appear at any season of the year, many attacks will follow the colds and influenza of autumn and early winter. We could reduce the number of cases by 50 per cent at least if every one would exercise due precautions about colds and flu. That is, by remaining in bed, taking plenty of fluid, and subsisting for 24 to 48 hours on a partial starvation diet. Whisky and rock candy will not do the trick, and I am afraid more cases have been precipitated than avoided by that popular cure.

We readily can visualize what the victim is confronting. He is fighting the poison of the disease and at the same time is unable to obtain sufficient air. Nature tries to compensate for this condition and as a result the breathing will be very rapid. A healthy person will fill the lungs from 16 to 18 times per minute. But in pneumonia the rate of respiration may be 30 or even 40. This helps as far as more oxygen is concerned, but what about the already weakened sick man? He overworks his breathing muscles and adds greatly to his fatigue. His pulse becomes faster, and this, too, has a tendency to exhaust the heart.

At this point—if oxygen can be administered—we will observe a marked change. That worried look will be lost, the struggle for air will cease, and both the respiration and the temperature may drop appreciably. But we must make certain that enough of this essential gas is supplied. We can, as a rule, gauge the quantity required from the color of the face and the hands. The fingers will change from a dusky, grayish hue to the normal pink of health.

In addition the poison must be combated and eliminated. This demands plenty of fluids containing chlorides, so that the skin, the kidneys, and all other organs of the body are freed from retained toxins. I am a great believer in the value of hot lemonade, hot, weak tea, etc.

Good nursing is essential and care must be taken to see that the skin is dry and that the surface of the body does not chill.

How can we recognize the situation? Many cases begin with a chill accompanied by a pain which is felt at every breath. The sufferer is willing to acknowledge that he is sick, although his appearance may not be alarming. The objective is to get him to bed with as little delay as possible.

I am sure that many lives are lost because the patient is fussed over. Encourage rest. Do not allow the nurse or any one to carry out well intentioned but worthless procedures. Remember that quiet and comfort will assist nature to do the healing.

YOU ARE RIGHT.

G. H. A. [optometrist] writes: All drugs which dilate the pupil of the eye present the possibility of causing an attack of glaucoma, especially if the patient is predisposed to the disease. Modern authorities are agreed that some of the earliest signs showing glaucoma to be present are minute enlargements in the size of the "blind spot" of the eye. Every eye has a normal blind spot where the optic nerve enters and, for the purpose of making a most accurate examination of this area, there has been devised an instrument known as the stereo-campimeter. No eye examination can be considered complete unless a study of the visual field is made, because an abnormality which does not lower vision cannot be detected by the ophthalmoscope. By this means some difficulty may be recognized which might otherwise be overlooked.

REPLY.

You are quite right. Mydriatics are exceedingly dangerous to those eyes that are on the glaucoma borderline, and are positively contraindicated with an eye that shows the slightest defect in drainage. I wish that every optometrist and ophthalmologist were obliged to take the tension of every eye that comes under their purview. I am sure that in this way many cases with a predisposition to glaucoma would be detected and hence save an acute "blowup" at some later period. Plotting the visual fields is of importance in diagnosis. These are narrowed in glaucoma.

SENSITIVITY TO COLD.

F. K. writes: With the cool weather I develop a rash on my nose and left eyebrow. I use a salve, which gives temporary relief. I am 32 years old. Could the condition be caused by high blood pressure or acidity? Would sunlamp treatments help? Or a change in diet?

REPLY.

The rash is probably an indication that you are sensitive to some substance in your vicinity. Cold in and of itself occasions some skin troubles such as itching. Investigate diet, clothing, etc. Perhaps wool is the starter. Blood pressure and acidity have nothing to do with it. Ultraviolet light will tan the skin and render it less sensitive to allergic substances. What do you eat now that was not included in your diet this summer? That may be a clew.

LOSS OF SMELL.

M. A. B. writes: What causes one to lose the sense of smell entirely? Does it indicate anything serious? Is there anything to be done about it?

REPLY.

Loss of smell is generally due to chronic inflammation of the nasal passages. The tiny endings of the olfactory nerve have been destroyed. Attack the catarrhal condition within the nose. A nose specialist may help you.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—The British Conservative party rank and file are becoming worried about the internal organization of the party and the method of selecting parliamentary candidates.

The party's financial organization is based on three foundations—the central office, the area council, and the constituency associations.

Each constituency raises its funds, and receives grants from its parent area fund if necessary. The central office organizes and finances education and propaganda, and puts possible candidates in touch with local Conservative associations seeking them.

The local association, however, is the final arbiter in the selection of a candidate, saving only that a central office committee may veto the selection and may refuse the party organization support to any one of whom it disapproves. Even such disapproval cannot prevent the constituency from running a candidate for election, backed by its resources.

The difficulty, now more widely discussed than ever by party supporters throughout the country, is that every seat considered "safe," or nearly so, from the Conservative viewpoint, is sought by men who are able and willing to contribute heavily to their candidacy.

Election expenses may be from $1,500 to an amount well into five figures; the cost of running the local association may be a similar amount yearly, and subscriptions to charities may be expected and demanded to the extent of $1,000 to $1,500 a year.

All this the candidate may be asked to pay. In numerous cases if he cannot guarantee a substantial proportion his name is not even considered. This is nearly always the position when the election of the candidate is considered a foregone conclusion.

The fault of the system, according to many delegates and officials, lies not with the central office but with the officers of the local organization in some of the "safe" divisions.

These are usually also the wealthiest areas. In poor districts the area organization generally can assist a good candidate unable to afford his election expenses or to finance the local party office.

Most delegates realize that speakers who have attacked the central office at a recent conference were hitting the wrong nail on the head, since the remedy does not lie in their hands.

Various proposals for reform were discussed at the conference, most of which included some form of "pooling" resources. The main problem, however, was to find a method of insuring any proposal's acceptance by constituency committees which would be asked to share their resources with others less wealthy.

CONTRACT PURCHASE.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A man bought a house for $6,000 on contract basis of $300 down and $50 a month. He kept up payments for three years and then paid no money at all for the last six years, not even taxes. I would like to know [1] if there would be trouble with the courts getting him out and [2] the approximate cost. J. K.

1. The Illinois forcible detainer act authorizes, on 30 days' notice, a quick and inexpensive suit for possession "when a vendee, having obtained possession under a written or verbal agreement to purchase lands or tenements and having failed to comply with his agreement, withholds possession after demand in writing." While in a mortgage foreclosure the defendant is sometimes permitted to enjoy the use of the premises during the fifteen months allowed for redemption from the foreclosure sale, there is no such delay in these contract cases.

If the contract has been recorded it will operate as a cloud on the title, preventing a quick resale, but after a reasonable time has gone by for the dispossessed purchaser to tender the amount due and ask for reinstatement, persons dealing with the title will be increasingly willing to ignore the cloud. An average "reasonable time" for this purpose would be about one year. Ordinarily the defaulting purchaser gets nothing for his "equity."

A POOR DAY FOR FAVORITES.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—A two dollar win parlay on the seven winning horses at Sportsman's Park yesterday, Oct. 20, played away from the track, would have called for a pay-off of $100,429,071.45 to the holder of such a ticket.

Not a favorite won all afternoon.

Horse racing in Illinois will not survive if Chicago has a few more seasons like the past summer. If operators of tracks cannot regulate owners and trainers of "inconsistent" horses the tracks should be closed. G. A. DYENS.

NAMES WITHOUT FACES.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—I've wondered for years [at least 5] why we TRIBUNE readers can't have a peek at the writers of the various columns. I've been dying to know what Antoinette Donnelly looks like, especially to see if she is as slim and beautiful as she would have us become; if Doris Blake is a myth; if Mae Tinée looks as cheerful as she sounds [perennially so].

What does a person look like who has an imagination like Harold Gray? I'm curious about the appearance of Gladys Bevans, Eleanor Nangle, and "knockout" Rhea Seeger [does she ever print a column without that word somewhere in it?]; and "bring to mind" June Provines, another who repeatedly repeats herself—though I love all the columns anyway.

I'd even like to see what Charles Collins looks like. He sounds quite a crab.

Why must we wait until the death of one of your scribes before we are favored with a picture of them? One friend of mine thinks it's because three columns are done by one person. DOROTHY.

TRAINING FOR POLITICIANS.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 18.—If your tooth ached and you needed a dentist you'd go to a dentist who had graduated from a dental college and had an established practice. Well, so would I. Yet, how about our politicians? Do they learn their trade, are they taught the elements concerning their business? After all, what is government besides a business with many departments?

After an individual becomes involved in politics he learns the rules. But I want my dentist to know what he's doing before he starts to treat the ailing object.

So why not a regular trade school to learn professional politics and then maybe we can get rid of some of our troubles and prevent future problems. We can choose our politicians as we choose our dentist and doctor, by their training and merits. MARY HELEN PILLSBURY.

THE NEW BRIDGE.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—Will you give me just a little space in which to reply to B. W. K. of Evanston who wrote of the new bridge?

He is disappointed in its design and expresses belief it was so built to justify reconstruction "with some easy money for those on the inside."

As to the first objection, "one can't please everybody." As to his belief in the crookedness of "those on the inside," a form of innuendo all too frequently heard, it strikes me that the ins must be extremely clever to conceal their many "crimes," or that the outs must be exceedingly stupid, for they never seem to get beyond a form of contemptible insinuation. E. J. T.

PROTECTING HOTEL ROOMS.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—Some time ago Mayor Kelly suggested that all hotel fire escapes having access to guest rooms be equipped with an alarm system which would sound when any one tried to climb the escape. This is a good idea, but may have its drawbacks unless the entire escape is connected with the alarm. If only a section would be so equipped, what would hinder an intruder to gain access to a window by climbing to an upper section of the escape from an upper floor, and then work his way to a window?

I have an idea which I believe is more practical. Why not compel hotels, etc., to equip windows having access to fire escapes with a steel Venetian blind or collapsible gate such as is used on factory doors and porches. This blind or gate could be controled by a button on the wall some distance from the window and in case of emergency a touch of the button would raise the blind or open the gate. The guest could close or adjust it before retiring and thereby be safe throughout the night. Or better yet, when future hotels are planned, have the fire escapes at the end of halls or areaways, and not in guest rooms.

It seems summer is the season for morons invading rooms, and now is the time to give some thought to this phase of crime. C. A. M.

IN AND OUT.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—On the night of Oct. 24, 1936, three others and myself were held up on the 58th street elevated platform. The stickup men were captured and sentenced to prison for a term of one year to life. The other day I got a notice from the parole board saying that the cases were coming up for parole.

I have been told by lawyers that a person sent to prison for that length of time is not eligible for parole until he has served from 3 to 7 years of his sentence.

These cases came before a subcommittee at the state penitentiary, Pontiac, Oct. 25.

I submit this letter to show just what the parole board is doing to four convicts who can come out in the city and do the same thing all over again. A READER.

WOULD PEOPLE OBEY IT?

Anderson, Ind., Oct. 21.—I am a farmer, not an attorney or a judge, but if I had the power to do so I would have a law passed in every state of the union that would put in jail every one who offered ransom in order to get back to them some one who is dear to them.

Look at the Lindberghs and the Rosses, only two of the many who have worried, paid and then failed to get back the one they loved.

It is my personal opinion that if such a law was in effect those who made a practice of kidnaping would see that there would be no chance, or at least a very poor one, to succeed in gaining what they had planned to get. W. S. BROMLEY.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—I just cannot let Mr. Epstein's letter, appearing in your column in today's paper, go unchallenged. I should like to take this opportunity to commend your excellent judgment in adding Mr. Sullivan to your staf. Here's for bigger columns by him. A. F. P.

TRY TO MATCH JOBS AND MEN IN CINCINNATI

Move Toward Solution of Unemployment.

BY WILL O'NEIL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—A long range plan is being developed here by which the community hopes, sometime in the future, to find a solution of the unemployment problem. The plan is known as the "Cincinnati four point employment program."

Members of the committee directing the program are emphatic in saying it is not an immediate cure-all for the relief problem that besets this city. They say the program has been publicized wrongly chiefly in a national weekly magazine, as an accomplishment, whereas it still is very much in the plan stage.

Only Few Find Work.

The plan has put a small number of persons to work. The community is hopeful that its further development will do much to level off employment peaks and depressions. If this is accomplished a lessening of the relief load will result.

The four points in the program are:

1. The development and promotion of apprenticeship training to meet the demands of industry for skilled labor. This applies chiefly to youths.
2. The retraining of workers who have lost their skills, or whose skills are inadequate for present industrial demands, and the provision of short time training courses for older workers who must be fitted for new jobs.
3. An attempt to find several part time jobs for one casual worker so several jobs will give the worker full time employment.
4. Coöperation with and strengthening of existing agencies to assist in selection of the handicapped persons offering the most immediate prospects of rehabilitation; to seek all possible job opportunities and training facilities for persons capable of self-support through rehabilitation; and assist eligible unemployables to obtain assistance from the proper social agency.

Committee Heads Experienced.

The chairman of the executive committee directing the program is Charles P. Taft, son of the late chief justice of the United States and a leader in community affairs in Cincinnati. The committee is made up of business men, representatives of labor, and heads of social service organizations.

Each of the four points in the program has a directing committee. The heads of these committees are industrial leaders, with the exception of committee IV., which is headed by a professor from the University of Cincinnati medical college.

The best brains, business, professional, and labor, of the city are devoting much of their time to finding a solution for the unemployment problem.

A pool of labor resources is being developed through the Cincinnati free employment service, an agency comparable to the Illinois state employment service in Chicago. At the head of the Cincinnati agency is Stanley Mathewson, a former associate of Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern university.

"We have not solved the unemployment problem in Cincinnati," Mathewson said, "but we think we have gone a long way toward analyzing it. The problem becomes one of finding out who the unemployed are, why they can't get a job, and what can be done to help them. We have done little on the last step."

Committee I. is studying the educational system of the city with an eye to recommending revisions that will stop the annual output of youths who have what is known as an education, but who do not have the qualifications for earning a living. This group also is studying the needs of industry for skilled labor and is attempting to match training programs with demands.

Parents Object to Trades.

"We'll go along with you on such a program," the unions have told the committee, "if you fill needs, but don't try to flood the market. As long as you coöperate with us in making sure that a machine, once started, doesn't continue to grind out skilled workers to a point where the supply exceeds the demand, we'll coöperate with you."

The manufacture of clothing, chiefly of the cheaper grades, is one of the largest sources of employment in Cincinnati. A shortage of power sewing machine operators developed. The International Ladies' Garment Workers' union was included in a plan to set up a training course for power machine operators. Enough operators were trained to meet the demand and the training was shut off.

"One of our chief difficulties in making the program work is the lack of coöperation from parents," one committee member said. "The parents all want their children to be 'something better' than a machinist.

"We are now trying to find out just what kinds of workers are needed now and what kinds of skills will be needed in the future. When we have that information we will be in a position to go before the parents and show opportunities, or lack of opportunities their children are facing."

Here, as in Chicago, at least 40 per cent of the unemployed persons who can work are more than 40 years old. Industry is calling for skilled workers, but there are few jobs for men past 40 who are unskilled laborers or white collar workers.

Accomplishments of the committee, so far, have been slight.

The New ROGRAIN

latest version of the original inside-out stocking

It's knit on the finest type 51-gauge machines . . . because the best stockings this season are finer. It's 2-thread instead of our former 3-thread . . . because the smartest stockings are sheerer. It's knit by a new process all in one piece to eliminate any possibility of ankle streaks. But it's still knitted, as always, on the reverse side to give it that dull flattering finish that made it so famous. Each pair neatly enclosed in a cellophane-windowed package.

WORLD EXPERTS LAUNCH CANCER WAR IN CHICAGO

Establishment of a Chicago institute, headed by famous scientists, to be devoted exclusively to research in cancer and instruction in methods of combating the disease, was announced yesterday by the board of trustees. The organization, to be known as the Chicago Tumor institute, will open March 1, 1938, in a four story remodeled building at the southeast corner of Dearborn and Elm streets.

Although the activities of the institute will be national in scope, its endowment fund has been contributed entirely by Chicagoans and it is incorporated an a nonprofit organization. It will be equipped with research laboratories and the latest X-ray and radium apparatus. The institute will conduct research on the causes, diagnosis, and treatment of cancer, and will instruct doctors, clinics, and hospitals in diagnosis and treatment.

Members of the scientific committee which will direct the work of the institute are Dr. Max Cutler, a cancer specialist who was formerly on the staf of Michael Reese hospital; Dr. Henri Coutard of the Curie institute of Paris, Sir George Lenthal Cheatle, consulting surgeon and emeritus lecturer in surgery at King's College hospital, London; Dr. Arthur H. Compton, physicist and Nobel prize winner, of the University of Chicago, and Dr. Ludvig Hektoen, director of the John Rockefeller McCormick Memorial Institute for Infectious Diseases and member of the council of the National Cancer institute.

HE LIKES

"Ralph says he likes REM, says 'It tastes good.' I find REM is the quickest cough relief of anything."

Paul Bruess
1503 N. 56th St., Milwaukee

Sure!

When Mr. Bruess emphasizes "quickest relief," he's only one of thousands who have commented on the speed with which REM works. REM is thorough, for coughs resulting from colds, because it works two ways . . . in the throat and also systemically. REM is much more than just a "tickle stopper."

QUESTION:
Do people appreciate the fact that Camels are made from finer, more expensive tobaccos?

ANSWER:
Camels are the LARGEST-SELLING Cigarette in America

IT costs Camels millions of dollars more to buy choicer tobaccos—to bring to smokers the matchless mildness and flavor that Nature puts into her finer tobaccos. If you are not a Camel smoker, try them and see why millions of Americans prefer Camel's Costlier Tobaccos!

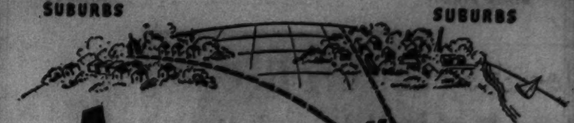
WESTERN SUBURBS — NORTHERN SUBURBS



A "RUSH-HOUR" TRAIN 14½ MILES LONG!

REGARDLESS OF WEATHER ... THE "L" PROVIDES THE EQUIVALENT OF A TRAIN 14½ MILES LONG EACH RUSH HOUR PERIOD... BOTH MORNING AND NIGHT

Countless alarm clocks ringing almost as one . . . thousands of people hurrying through breakfast and out of their homes. All of Chicago moving at once. The morning rush hour period is on!

And the Elevated Rapid Transit Lines are ready to meet it . . . ready with hundreds of fast trains comprising 1,500 cars! Linked together, they would make a single train 14½ miles long . . . a solid train extending from the Loop far beyond the North or West city limits.

The routing of these trains through the Loop in such a short space of time is considered one of the greatest transportation feats of the age. Nowhere else in this country—or any other—has such efficiency in operation been attained. Traffic experts come to Chicago from all over the world to see how it is done.

And these trains are to take care of rush hour traffic alone! Altogether, the "L" operates 5,383 trains every working day . . . four times the number of all trains entering and leaving Chicago daily over the 25 steam and electric railroads serving the city (including all suburban trains). Every day the "L" carries hundreds of thousands of people to downtown Chicago and returns them to their homes . . . all without adding to the congestion of the streets below.

PLAY SAFE THIS WINTER ... RIDE THE "L"

With its thousands of trains, its fast and comfortable service, its protected stations, and its tracks above the congested streets, the "L" is the backbone of Chicago transportation . . . the sure, fast way to travel in all kinds of weather. Play safe! Ride the "L"!

Jascha Heifetz Applauded by Huge Audience

BY CECIL SMITH.

At the Civic Opera house last night Jascha Heifetz played his first violin recital in Chicago since agreeing to become a motion picture star under the ægis of Samuel Goldwyn. An enormous audience turned out to give him a rousing welcome as he began the last concert tour he is to make before his visage is spread upon every screen in the civilized world.

There was none of the aura of Hollywood about Mr. Heifetz last night. Truth to tell, the movie moguls may run into a good bit of difficulty if they try to glorify—in the Stokowski manner—a personality so modest and an art so immaculate.

Mr. Heifetz was in good but not brilliant vein last night. The two long works of the program were of minor stature—the Grieg C minor sonata and the Bruch G minor concerto. With the superb aid of Emanuel Bay at the piano, he presented these in almost too realistic a light, showing them to be works of alternating lyric beauty and stilted dullness. Of the shorter pieces, Szymanowski's serene "Chant de Roxane" was rapturously received by the audience, and Mr. Heifetz's own transcription of a clever Prokofieff gavotte for the piano had to be repeated.

Hortense Love, a young Chicago Negro soprano of charming presence, sang at the Studebaker theater yesterday afternoon. In the spiritual, "The City Called Heaven," and in Gabriel Grovlez's fantastic "Guitares et Mandolines," she revealed far more than ordinary musical sensitivity. Possessed of a keen mind and indomitable ambition, she can hope for a bright future. Unfortunately, she has not been well taught on the purely vocal side of things, and she must work hard and intelligently to bring her tone production up to par.

A few hours before Heifetz's recital Serge Jaroff appeared upon the Civic Opera house stage with many a military turn and much clicking of heels to conduct his Don Cossack Russian male chorus in its third Chicago concert this season. No other group of male singers can create an equal physiological thrill by their tone. The chorus sang five Russian motets with stirring theatrical effect, and yet with less distortion of purely musical values than usual.

ORCHESTRA NOVELTIES

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The Great Northern theater seemed positively alive with composers yesterday afternoon. The occasion was another of those novelty packed concerts by the Illinois Symphony orchestra, favorite child of the Chicago division of the Federal Music project.

Rudolph Ganz, resident pianist and pedagog who served as guest conductor of the afternoon, found representation on the program with a little composition of his own called "Pensée." Max Wald, also a Chicago teacher, was asked to rise from his place after a performance of his song, "Beyond the Thames." Edgar Stillman Kelley, 80 year old dean of American composers, heard the Chicago première of his "Gulliver" symphony, then came to the stage to bow and speak his acknowledgments to an enthusiastic audience.

Charles Wakefield Cadman occupied a box near the Kelleys. Felix Borowski and Wesley LaViolette were visible in the audience. This makes six composers, and takes no account of additional groups that may have been lurking in odd corners of the theater.

To say that the program was packed with novelties is an understatement. There were only three minutes of familiar music all afternoon. Here is an account of the larger novelties.

"New York Days and Nights," by Emerson Whithorne, 73 year old American composer of English-Dutch-French-Scotch-Irish descent, is an orchestral suite in three movements. Fourteen years old, but never before performed here, the piece turns out to be a remarkably effective blend of out-and-out description and deftly applied atmosphere [quite à la "An American in Paris" in this respect]. "On the Ferry" has an attractive, Whistlerlike mistiness, with the river

R. C. Wheeler Is Engaged to Eastern Girl

BY JUDITH CASS.

ROMANTIC news takes first place this morning, since several engagements were announced over the week-end. Mrs. Robert C. Wheeler and her daughter, Mrs. Henry L. McIntyre, went east last week to be present yesterday when Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Weaver announced the engagement of their daughter, Sherli Jane, to Robert C. Wheeler, Mrs. Wheeler's son. The announcement was made at a tea at the Weavers' home in Noroton, Conn.

The news will not come as a surprise to young Mr. Wheeler's friends here, for he has been devoted to Miss Weaver since they met two years ago. She visited his mother at Harbor Point during the last two summers. The wedding will take place after Mr. Wheeler is graduated from Yale next June. He prepared for college at the Choate school.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Coy Glidden today are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy, to Robert S. Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jess H. Wilson of Fall Field farm, Albemarle county, Va.

It was at the wedding of Betty Ashcraft to Douglas K. Huntress a year ago that Miss Glidden caught the bride's bouquet, but the old superstition that she would be first of the bridesmaids to wed is not quite coming true, for another bridesmaid, Miss Mary Young, whose engagement was announced last week, will be married next month to William G. Peacock Jr. Miss Glidden and Mr. Wilson, who lived formerly in Chicago, will be married in December. Following their wedding Mr. Wilson, who is a graduate of the Babson institute, will take his bride to Bloomington, Ill., to make their home.

Carolyn Cushman Engaged to Wed a Virginian.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Andrew Cushman of Chicago and Charlottesville, Va., announced the engagement of their daughter, Carolyn Leeds Cushman, to Alexander Waddell Walker of Charlottesville at a luncheon Saturday at the Exmoor club.

Since graduating from Ferry hall Miss Cushman has studied at the Art institute and at the William and Mary Academy of Art in Richmond, Va. Mr. Walker, who is the son of Mrs. Marshall Walker of Charlottesville, is a graduate of the University of Virginia.

The wedding will take place Nov. 20 at Farmoor, the Cushman home in Charlottesville. Mr. Walker and his bride will live at Walsingham, Port Conway, Va.

At a dinner at home in Hinsdale Saturday night Mr. and Mrs. Frederick L. Baker announced the engagement of their daughter, Barbara, to James S. Knowlson IV., son of Mr. and Mrs. James S. Knowlson, also of Hinsdale.

Miss Baker attended Miss Mary's school in Peekskill, N. Y., and Andrebrook in Tarrytown, N. Y., and was introduced to society two years ago at a dinner-dance at the Casino given by her uncle, Robert F. Carr. Mr. Knowlson attended the Loomis school and Union college, and is engaged in business in Chicago. No date has been set for the wedding.

Ruth Alice Sproat Weds F. G. Schweitzer Today.

The wedding of Miss Ruth Alice Heaney, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Noble Sproat Heaney, to Frederic G. Schweitzer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Schweitzer, took place Saturday afternoon at Woody Nook farm, the Heaneys' home near Glen Ellyn. A few relatives and friends heard the Rev. Gowan Williams of St. Mark's church in Glen Ellyn read the service, and there was a reception afterward for the same small group.

After a honeymoon in Mexico Mr. and Mrs. Schweitzer will live in Evanston. Mr. Schweitzer is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and his bride was graduated from Gulf Park college and the American Academy of Art in Chicago.

Debutante in Service Club Revue

Miss Jane Weary is one of the debutantes taking part in the Service Club Revue to be given Nov. 6 at the Auditorium theater. Her parents, the Edwin F. Wearys, will give a tea dance for her at the Woman's Athletic club Dec. 29, to which the members of the University of Pennsylvania's dramatic organization, Masque and Wig, have been invited. The Masque and Wig is making its first Chicago appearance that night.

THE same individualistic activities seem to go on in Chicago while we are eating papaya under the hau tree arbor and swimming in the Pacific and learning words like malihini [stranger] and kamaaina [old timer]. From 4,000 miles away comes word of a little incident that occurred in a Chicago hamburger palace. A woman entered late at night, sat down and ordered a hamburger sandwich and a piece of cheese. When the order arrived she opened her pouch bag and from it crept a tiny white mouse. The mouse nibbled at the cheese while the woman consumed her hamburger. When the midnight repast was over the mouse was put back into the purse and the woman paid her check and departed.

Good Morning!

It's too big and it's too long and it has a silly story that's clumsily strung together. BUT—

It does display no end of gorgeous clothes—the "very latest" in everything a woman might wear. It is blessed with a cast of excellent players. It has beautiful backgrounds photographed exquisitely in technicolor.

Myriads of handsome girls—most of them professional models—drift smilingly here and there, adding great lure; there is one ballad—"That Old Feeling"—effectively sung; also some mighty expert dancing—tap and pirouette. Joan Bennett fairly startles you with her beauty—especially in one blue outfit. Warner Baxter plays the head of the house of Curson with suavity and humor. Mischa Auer hands you a couple of laughs. . . . And so on.

The yarn carries you behind the scenes in the establishment of a fashionable New York couturier. . . . You learn that there are rackets in fashions as in everything else. . . . You get eyes and earsful of sales tactics—exaggerated—but still the idea is there.

If "Vogues of 1938" had been more expertly knit as to story and trimmed to fit a lesser period of time—it lasts 105 minutes—it might have been a humdinger. As stands it's just a hum.

See you tomorrow.

Youth Gains Dignity if Parents Admit Him to Order of Adults

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

How to treat your teen age sons and daughters as people? Well, you know the answer if you think—but:

A. Take them into some of the family conclaves and problems—but do not to distress or burden them unnecessarily. These may include money, plans for moving, or vacation, or their education.

B. Let them, with you, see their relatives as human beings with faults as well as virtues—not just in a respect-your-elders way. They must learn really to know human nature.

C. Don't sidestep discussions of things-you-hope-they-don't-know-about. Neither blindness nor a conspiracy of silence protects young people when they get out in the world.

D. Listen to their opinions.

These are only a few; the other ways will occur to you individually. But try it. They sense the respect you feel and show them as people; and they gain dignity in their own eyes, and act accordingly.

Many of the actions parents complain of—much of the friction wouldn't exist if teen age boys and girls were treated like this.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

The Week's Wash

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 24. — Greta Garbo really told off Leopold Stokowski when her name was dragged into his wife's Reno action. "It's a disgrace—you are trying to ruin me," she burned, over the long distance phone. Incidentally, Garbo and Boyer, in "Conquest," make all other screen lovers appear sophomoric. . . . Jimmy Stewart is helping Virginia Bruce forget her stock losses. . . . Joan Bennett's most persistent honey is that New York attorney, but he's married.

Roland Young's quoted sneers at Hollywood bounced back, costing him a Paramount contract. . . . The Cagney-Warner item here was confirmed within twenty-four hours. . . . Movies and the big radio chains will stamp out locust-plague of Hollywood gossipers dishing dirt about the stars. And about time, too.

Week's best crack is that Charlie McCarthy's success proves you can accomplish anything out here by sitting on the right lap.

Hedy Lamarr, who did the strip-tease in the banned "Ecstasy," is concentrating on Nelson Eddy and Rudy Vallee. . . . The Stan Laurels have split definitly; maybe his wife saw some of his pictures. . . . Lorna Hearst and Van Smith are an item. . . . Cesar Romero is Tyrone Power's stand-in with Sonja Henie while the heart-breaker is in New York. . . . Whatever happened to Robert Taylor? . . . Bert Lahr is a big click in "Merry-Go-Round," but lack of marquee names makes it a box office hazard. . . . The ever-lovin' Junior Laemmle is Mary Borelli's Charlie McCarthy. He's so tiny he has to sit on the girls' laps. . . . Jimmy Blakeley is making passes at Mary Carlisle again. . . . George Jessel says that the Jewish papers rate pictures by matzoth balls instead of the stars some critics use; if a picture gets four matzoth balls it's a hit.

Warners' didn't list the cast in "Alcatraz" because they were afraid the audience would shoot them, the writers and the producer. . . . Harvest moon ball dance champs. Agnes Meicoll and Walter Cosden, will get $500 and train fare to hoof the "collegiate shag" in the Ginger Rogers-Doug Fairbanks Jr. picture. . . . Patricia Wilder and Eddie Buzzell have been seen together once, which makes it a romance in my book. . . . Aside to National Press club, Washington, D. C.: Groucho will wire you Tuesday night soon as he gets the okay from RKO Prexy Leo Spitz.

Director Woody Van Dyke lost his shirt when California trampled U. S. C. . . . Make a small bet that Vic Orsatti and June Lang will be back together again. . . . The Peppy D'Albrews leave for the east Friday. . . . Deal for "Dick Tracy" and "Little Orphan Annie" calls for $15,000 each a year. . . . Al Hall calls on Lucille Ball. . . . Andrea Leeds and Jack Dunn are gurgling and cooing. . . . Paul Whiteman's band will blow the New Year in at the Cocoanut Grove for those of us who are away from home. . . . George Rector got more publicity out here than Mae West; they gave him editorials and full page picture spreads.

SAFE ROAD

SYNOPSIS.

When rich old Caleb Winter dies, his wife, Isabella, once his housekeeper, wires her daughter, Sally Lee Keyne, at school in Maryland, to come home at last. Because Caleb had demanded a housekeeper without family ties, Isabella had never told him about Sally. Sally bids good-by to wise Mary Culpepper, school headmistress, and sets off. En route Sally meets Robin Ashe, whose family lives near the old Crewe mansion. Sally's new home—he falls in love with her. The Winter chauffeur meets Sally in Baltimore and, driving her home, gives a lift to an arrogant tramp called Vincent. Sally orders the chauffeur to put him out. The morning after Sally's homecoming, Joseph Marr, his lawyer, reads Caleb's will, and her mother has a stroke. Informed of his wife's deception, Caleb left everything to his first wife's nephew, Obadiah Crewe. Mrs. Winter, if she stays on as housekeeper, to have shelter and an income. The new heir turns out to be the tramp—Vincent Obadiah Crewe. Though she hates and fears him, Sally serves him as housekeeper in her mother's place. Vincent inherits Caleb's tricky West Indian valet, Manchi. Sally is touched when Vincent asks her to teach him to be a gentleman.

INSTALMENT XIX.

CINDERELLA'S LETTER.

"I hear you! I get you! Maybe you don't know it, but you want to speak to Mr. Crewe's housekeeper. Well there ain't any other Miss Keyne. No, nor any other Miss Sally Keyne. Mr. Crewe's housekeeper," said Vincent, speaking through his teeth, "is not at liberty to take a personal phone message until after her working hours . . . say, about 6 p. m." And he hung up.

He turned sideways and stood still, looking down. He must have felt Sally's fury which had made her speechless. She suffered a throbbing in her temples and a strange weakness in her wrists.

"Who . . ." she had to stop and control her breath. "Who . . . was it . . . that asked to speak to me?"

"How the hell do I know? I didn't get his name. One of your boy friends, likely." He moved away and sought the shelter of the deep-silled leaf clouded windows. "I told him off like that for two reasons. I didn't like his speaking voice . . . which I reckon I've heard before . . ." Then it was Robin Ashe! "And I didn't want him to think he could interrupt my business . . . not in that tone of voice!"

"Mr. Crewe, you will never be a gentleman!"

At that he merely narrowed his hard eyes and tightened his hard mouth.

"I don't believe . . . I think I shall have to explain . . . I mean . . . I am sure you don't understand my position in this house."

"Sure I understand it. You're here on sufferance."

"What on earth do you mean?"

"I mean you got no legal right to the shelter of this roof. I mean I can throw you out any day or any minute of any day I darn please."

She stood up and leaned down on both her hands, as her mother had stood and leaned to see the written words of her disaster.

She felt her mouth and tongue and throat go dry. It was the truth. She had not so far realized it. In that will of Caleb Winter's no provision had been made for Isabella Winter's child by her first husband. Under the spur of her necessity she had thought of herself not as an independent entity, but as a substitute. She was acting as her mother's alter ego, to save for her a home and a livelihood.

"Well," he said, "now you got something wished on you, and let's see how grown up you are going to be about it."

Sally moved her pale young lips carefully. She had the look of a child's illness on her face.

"I am going to take it as maturely as I can, Mr. Crewe. You are perfectly right, of course. I'm not thinking of myself . . ." the edges of her lips grew fine and sharp and he saw that beautiful darkening of her eyes for tears, "I am thinking of . . . mother."

Vincent spoke roughly. "Go on up to her now. I'll write down my bill of fare and give it to Charles. You got no need to worry . . . yet. I want you right now more than you ever wanted any one in all your life, I reckon. You will earn your board and keep . . ." and, with that, he touched her on her shoulder as lightly as though she had been charged with some deadly current. Sally laughed and felt a rush of tears. Through them she gave him an enormous and uncertain look and ran away.

She ran almost into Charles who, with trouble in his own little wrinkled face, approached the office door.

"Is Mr. Crewe in there, Miss Sally, ma'am?"

"Yes, Charles." She had controled her tears and turned her face aside.

"There's a man here. I got to let you see him."

The man to whom Charles' furtive gesture now directed her attention stood just inside the door of the entrance at the far end of the hall, a curious and vaguely shocking figure, blanched and bleached, insolent, timid, and old. These things Sally could see in one tear-disturbed look.

"I don't think, Charles," she admonished softly, "you should let such people into the house at all."

"No miss. I'm agreeable to that my own self. But he jus' force de do'. He done git pass me no matter what, and I reckon I better face him with Mister Crewe hisself."

"I think you had."

Sally went up the stairs, but glancing back once at the dubious intruder, saw that he was looking up at her through a dingy blanched forelock with such a speculative look as chilled her flesh. She wondered if perhaps it had been this shape moving among the trees that had scared Star off the wood trail and had made that step which had drawn Vincent out with a heavy right hand pocket into the night.

If Cinderella, returned from her ball to disenchantment, had written a letter to her handsome prince, the document would have been very much like that which Sally wrote to Robin Ashe. He did not telephone to Mr. Crewe's housekepeer at 6 p. m. or later, as she had half feared, half hoped he would, but for this omission she easily excused him. He had already written and was owed explanation of her circumstances.

So now, on a morning of threatening rain, she wrote, dramatizing her situation as youth must, and certainly with some excuse! and feeling toward him as proud and as timid, as trustful and as dubious, as Cinderella might herself have felt. In this letter Obadiah Vincent Crewe certainly filled the rôle of a wicked step-relation . . . and even received a sort of sinister intentions which the writer had not intended or did not herself discern. More of her fear and anger toward him, her sense of psychic helplessness was betrayed than she had any notion of herself. "He has me in his power," wrote Cinderella, "I'm entirely dependent. I can't do anything." Sally was an eloquent writer, having a gift for word pictures. No man of the knightly age or temperament could have read her account of herself unmoved. No man obsessed by the beauty of her eyes could have read it without a tumult of the heart. Upon Robin Ashe its effect was fairly catastrophic; nor was his family long left unaware of the volcanic influence. The result was a disturbed breakfast in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Ashe.

The home, like Sally's, was theirs by sufferance, its real owner being Ronald's widowed and wealthy sister, Heather Gayle. This lady sat at the head of her own table, her brother and sister-in-law on either side, and showed above her silver coffee urn the face of gentle feminine tyranny. Mrs. Gayle always said good-morning cheerfully; in fact she had said good-morning three times cheerfully and then, putting on a pair of bowed Oxford glasses above a short sharp nose, she minutely examined the family mail, which by her command was always put at her place and left there undisturbed until she had looked over it. Today she said, first: "If you don't pay that dentist bill at once, Milly dear . . . you are so girlishly carefree about bills, aren't you? . . . I suppose I shall have to attend to it and deduct the amount from some other portion of the family budget . . ." and second, "Why, here's a letter from Robbie, addressed to both of you. That suggests a communication of some importance. Do you suppose, by any remote chance, that the boy has again exceeded his allowance?"

Kidney beans are an adaptable vegetable, and a hearty one. They make good salads and chilis, of course, and they make nutritious and filling main dishes in combination with various other vegetables.

These four savory combinations suggest what may be done to these meaty red beans to accent their somewhat subdued natural flavor:

Kidney Bean Casserole.
[Serves Six.]

2 cups boiled or canned kidney beans
3 medium carrots, cut fine
1 medium onion, cut fine
1 cup canned or fresh tomatoes
½ cup milk
½ cup chopped raw or cooked meat
Salt, pepper, celery salt

Brown the meat in a small amount of fat and combine with other ingredients. Season with salt, pepper and celery salt. Place in a buttered baking dish, cover, and bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes or until vegetables are tender.

Cheese and Kidney Bean Loaf.
[Serves Six.]

1 pound can kidney beans
½ pound American cheese
1 onion, chopped
1 tablespoon butter
1 cup bread crums
Salt, pepper, paprika
2 eggs
Bread crums [dry]

Drain liquid from beans. Run beans and cheese through food chopper. Cook onion in butter. Combine ingredients, season, and add beaten eggs. Mold into a loaf or roll, moisten outside with melted butter and water, and roll in bread crums. Or pack the mixture firmly in a buttered baking dish and cover with fine buttered crums. Bake at 350 degrees until well browned and serve hot with tomato sauce. The loaf may be served cold, and in sandwiches, too.

Mexican Frijoles.
[Serves Four.]

1 pint kidney beans [dried]
3 tablespoons butter or oil
2 large onions, sliced
Salt, pepper
Chili sauce

Soak the beans overnight and cook in salted water until tender. Drain, saving the liquid for soup. Melt butter in frying pan. Add onions, salt and pepper, and cook until yellowed. Stir in the beans and fry until they begin to crisp. Serve with chili sauce. A little minced green pepper may be added with the onion.

Potato-Kidney Bean Loaf.
[Serves Six.]

2 cups cooked or canned kidney beans
½ Cup milk
¼ teaspoons salt
3 tablespoons butter or meat drippings
3 cups hot riced potatoes
⅛ cup milk
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon butter
Pepper

Press beans through sieve or ricer and blend with the milk, butter or drippings, and salt. Place in a greased baking dish and cover with the potatoes, which have been blended with the remaining ingredients. Brown in a 400 degree oven and serve with a spicy tomato sauce.

Short Sleeved Gowns Require Attention to Beauty of Arms

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Short sleeves shown in so many of the fall and winter models for daytime wear, as well as the sleeveless evening gowns, make it imperative that the arm and hand situation be given a thorough going over. There's no place in either the day or evening schedule for arms with rough, pebbly skin, for rough elbows, or for hands that show the ravages of a summer devoted to tennis, golf, or motoring.

For rough arms a daily scrubbing with a bath brush and a bland soap, followed by massage with a nourishing cream, will soon restore the offending limb to its normal smoothness. In mild form, this condition will respond to nightly creaming.

When rough, calloused elbows mar the picture, give them care at the same time you cream your face. The rich nourishing creams used have the same softening influence upon elbows as upon the skin of the face. This job, usually done at night, permits the cream to get in its good work while you sleep.

Hands that have been busily engaged with the tennis racket, golf sticks, or the wheel have suffered from exposure, but daily care will soon return them to their original loveliness. Use a hand cream or lotion after each hand washing during the day, and at night cream with a rich nourishing cream, applying generously, after which you should encase the hands in large cotton gloves.

Wash hands in warm water, not hot, and always use a soap free from alkalis, as they are irritating to the skin.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

This is gentlemen's day, with news of an English shaving soap that helps them to be handsomer and in a form that helps them be happier. It's not a cake, nor a bowl—nothing so ordinary as that.

This is a fine, bland shaving soap, made in the land of royalty and roast beef, compressed into an oblong composition case that fits the hand nicely, is water resistant, and has a tight fitting, slip proof cover. When you remove the top, you slip it beneath the base and the whole thing is easy to hold.

Naturally, most of our news of the flaws or frills of shaving soap must come second hand, but the most exacting of the Clark Gables of our acquaintance have raved about this. They liked the quality of the soap and the form in which it is presented. It's perfect for traveling, they report, because of the snug cover and because of its size. Fits beautifully, they say, into the most crowded traveling bag—and is exactly the right size for the average shelf, whether in a Pullman or the home bathroom. It's light and slim and sleek, this brown composition case. And from other sources, we learn there's enough cake in the "shave pack" to last well nigh a year!

It's something to look up, men.

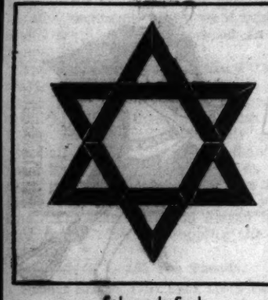
"Solomon's Seal" Quilt First Made a Century Ago



Solomon's Seal

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Solomon's Seal" first was appliqued just a century ago in the state of New York. It was done in blue and white, and the title was typical of the strong religious fervor which marked our pioneer ancestors. While the quilt appears to be utterly simple, care must be exercised in setting the patches together and in the applique work. The blocks are large, measuring 16 inches, and are set together with four inch bands between blocks. A six inch border around the coverlet is quilted in "Solomon's Seal" and shells.

Lingerie Cut to Fit Well

WOMAN'S AND MISS' LINGERIE.

Slips that avoid bumps and excess folds of material are those that are cut to fit. This sounds simple, doesn't it? But obtaining underslips that do flattering things for your figure-hugging frocks is not so easy. One of the smartest things to do is to make your lingerie yourself, then you will not face the problem of hunting for well-fitted garments.

The costume slip illustrated today may be made in dressy or tailored style. That is, it may be trimmed with lace or with simply an embroidered monogram. [Embroidery pattern No. 706 is a good one to use. It costs 10 cents extra.] The garment molds the bustline and does slimming things to the waist and hips. And it takes only a very short time to cut the material and sew up the few seams. You might use the pattern for a variety of underslips, one for each of your gowns, and colors to correspond.

Style No. 3143 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measurement. Size 38 requires 2⅛ yards of 39 inch material.

St. Wenceslaus Parish Marks 25th Anniversary

Bishop Bernard J. Sheil, vicar general of the Catholic diocese of Chicago, yesterday presided at services marking the 25th anniversary of the founding of St. Wenceslaus parish, 3410 North Monticello avenue. Following the services a luncheon was held at the parish clubhouse and last night a jubilee dinner was held at the Lake Shore Athletic club. Julius Szatkowski presided at the banquet, with Paul Drymalski, knight of St. Gregory, a principal speaker.

and its traffic and its implications presented in a most plausible manner.

"Chimes of St. Patrick's" is vaguely medieval and modal; "Pell Street" is vividly Chinese. An authentic oriental melody is the basis of this last movement.

Dr. Kelley's "Gulliver" symphony traces Dean Swift's traveler from England to Lilliput and back again. The piece is sprightly and humorous, making intentional use of charming and outmoded devices such as a stylistic presentation of the motion of the sea. That was a rousing hornpipe in the last movement.

"Etenraku" is a transcription of certain Japanese court music of the eighth century and bears the signature of Hidemaro Konoe, widely known conductor and a brother of the present premier of Japan. The music probably stems, ironically, from China. The transcription succeeds in preserving the antique and exotic ceremonial aspect of the music by a skillful use of such unusual devices as six part violin scoring.

Is Louisa Hoe, soprano soloist of the afternoon, taxing herself by working too hard and making too many public appearances? Her voice yesterday seemed to have less of the suavity and brightness which were so enthusiastically noted and so fulsomely reported after her Kimball hall recital a week ago.

Through all the afternoon, Mercado's Tipica Mexican orchestra kept Orchestra hall gay with the rhythms of Latin music or nostalgic in a peculiarly southern fashion. The group consists of an orchestra of about eighteen pieces [conventional strings and piano plus guitar, psalteries, and xylophone], soprano and tenor soloists, and the Ojeda dancers.

South American music was well represented on the program, also the art of Mexico, Cuba, Portugal, Spain —and Russia! The latter country owed its place to Rimsky-Korsakoff's thoughtfulness in writing a Spanish caprice.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright; 1937; By Ely Culbertson.]

Questions 20 and 21 of the National Self-Rating Bridge Examination appeared last Friday. They were:

Question 20. Both sides vulnerable. You are South. The bidding was as follows:

North	East	South	West
1 spade	Double	Pass	2 hearts
Pass	2 no trump	Pass	3 no trump
Pass	Pass	Pass

You must lead from this holding: ♠ Q 9 4 ♥ 7 5 ♦ Q 9 7 3 2 ♣ 10 9 8. What card do you lead?

Answer. Your correct lead is the four of spades. Declarer, on your right, probably holds some spade combination such as A J x or K J x. By conserving your spade queen you will shut out his secondary stopper in the suit. [Two points demerit for leading any card except the spade four.]

Question 21. Both sides vulnerable. You are South. East, your righthand opponent, dealt and bid four spades. Your holding is: ♠ 3 ♥ A Q 10 5 ♦ A K J 6 ♣ K Q J 4. What call do you make?

Answer. You should bid four no trump. This, of course, is tantamount to a take-out double, in that it asks your partner to show his best suit. You are well prepared for any five bid. If you were to double you might have to be contented with a very small penalty since, obviously, your righthand opponent holds a freak. [One point demerit for doubling; three points demerit for passing or for any five bid.]

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question 22. Neither side vulnerable. You are South, the dealer. You hold: ♠ A K 10 9 4 2 ♥ A 7 ♦ A K 6 ♣ A 9.

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
2 spades	3 clubs	Pass	3 hearts
3 spades	4 clubs	Pass	4 hearts

What call do you make now?

TODAY'S HAND.

West, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

SOUTH

♣ A 9

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 spade*	2 diam'ds
2 hearts	3 diam'ds	Pass	5 diam'ds
Pass	Pass	Pass

*A third hand semi-psychic.

West opened his top spade. East won and, correctly analyzing that defeat of the contract would hinge on establishing a club trick before West's probable heart ace was knocked out, returned the deuce of clubs. Declarer instantaneously decided that East would not have led away from the club king, and therefore climbed right up with the club ace. The diamond ace drew the outstanding trumps, and the heart queen then was played. West, after some hesitation [during which his partner held his breath] finally, reluctantly, took this with the ace. But then he spoiled that magnificent play by returning, not the club king, but another heart! Declarer grinned broadly as he discarded his losing club on the heart king.

East exploded: "Good grief, partner! Can't you take the setting trick?" West muttered something to the effect that he had been afraid that the club king, if played, would be ruffed by declarer, and dummy's queen established.

"O, well!" East fairly snorted, "if you couldn't count from my lead of the fourth best club that declarer started with two, just let's skip the whole thing!"

The Housewife

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

One battle that, like death and taxes, looms up in every life is the battle to get the top off the mayonnaise jar. Or the tin cap off the ginger ale bottle.

You can declare peace once and for all by investing in a handy little gadget that, when securely attached to the wall or a door, is equal to any tin top ever made. Its motto is "I open anything that wears a cap." This fixture has a hinge that allows it to be pushed out of the way when not in use.

You simply swing it up, hold the jar, glass or bottle with both hands, insert it in the open jaws of the gadget and then turn or tilt, as the case may be. Tin tops of jelly glasses, tin screw tops of peanut butter jars, or mayonnaise jars, or fruit jars yield at once to this opener.

A Keep Warm Vogue Is Given Cozy Welcome

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The big rush for good heating units has started with the arrival of feelingly low temperatures. Everything is available for the cozy comfort of the shivering shoppers. Fine soft flannelette sleeping pajamas and cleverly cut nightgowns with long sleeves head the list.

The flannelette stuff has gone decorative with snappy little dots and floral designs in pastel or bright colors against pastel and white backgrounds. Pajamas in stripes are new this winter; they're smartly tailored and should keep the chilliest soul in rosy comfort even out on the old sleeping porch.

For the football and outdoor crowds there are the new thin wool, snug fitting panties that reach below the knee. And don't laugh too soon, because plenty of smart people wear them. The colors are a riot, vivid blue and a red flannel red, as well as black and flesh tinted for the persnickity shopper who sniffs at good high colors.

For ankles that can't take the blustering breezes see the wool anklets in every imaginable color. They fit smoothly and this year tie neatly at the ankle. They aren't any more ridiculous than the footgear that ties in the same manner.

There's any amount of wool underwear, very, very distantly related to the old comedy affairs of former decades. These are either one piece or two piece, fit smoother than your skin and are as light as a whiff and never wrinkle or bulge.

Lastly, the really hampered people, those who complain from October till June about icy feet, should see the fancy bed socks. Some are sane affairs of soft fuzzy wool, but the goofy kind come in pastel colors and end with a fluff of marabou around the ankle and a bow tie. Anyway, as silly as any of these things sound, they're being sold as fast as they can be wrapped. What a bunch of sissies we're turning out to be!

65 YARD DRIVE IN 4TH PERIOD WHIPS PIRATES

Coffee's Pass Scores First Touchdown.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 24.—The Chicago Cardinals' offensive system of using two teams paid dividends this afternoon in a 13 to 7 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates. The starting team, with Pat Coffee passing to Vergil Deskin, scored a touchdown in the third period, and the second team, led by George Grosvenor, followed up this attack with a sixty-five yard march in the final quarter which was completed when Jimmy Lawrence ran wide around the left end of the Pirate line for two yards and a touchdown.

Bill May place kicked after Deskin's touchdown, while Hal Pangle failed on the other try for point.

Pirates Fight Back.

The Cardinals needed this two touchdown lead, for in the final two minutes, and on the first play from scrimmage after the kickoff following Lawrence's touchdown, the Pirates crossed the Cardinal goal line on a long pass from Max Fiske to Bill Davidson. The play started on the Pirates' 35 yard line. Davidson grabbed the ball at full speed forty-five yards down the field after he had outrun the secondary. Izzy Weinstock place kicked the extra point.

Ten thousand watched the Pirates lose their fifth consecutive league contest. Long before the end they were convinced that this afternoon, at least, the Chicagoans were a better squad. Despite a Pirate march in the first period and another in the last quarter, after the Cards had jumped to the front, 7 to 0, the Pirates failed to impress.

The sixty-five yard forward pass play, which accounted for all except twenty yards of the ground gained by Pittsburgh in the air, was needed to bring the final score to respectable proportions. Pittsburgh never had possession of the ball after scoring, the game ending three plays later with the Cards on the Pirates' 43 yard line.

Russell Intercepts Pass.

The Cardinals' first touchdown was set up midway in the third quarter, when Doug Russell intercepted Coach Johnny Blood's forward pass and returned it twenty yards to the Pirate 18 yard line. The first play was an incomplete short forward pass.

On the next play Deskin, from his position at right end, crossed through the Pirate secondary and took Coffee's pass twelve yards from the goal. The Pirates' secondary plans went wrong and Deskin was not covered as he jogged on to score.

Spurred by this score, the Pirates started their best offensive of the game just before the fourth period opened. Exchanges of punts by Blood and Russell eventually gave the ball to the Pirates on their 49 yard line. Four plays later, as the final period opened, the Pirates had moved up to the Cardinal 35 yard line. The Cards' second eleven now had the burden of stopping the assault.

Smith Leads the Parade.

Stuart Smith, half back from Bucknell, was the spark in this drive. He carried the ball or passed on every play except one and in nine attempts the Pirates reached the Cardinal 9 yard line. Interference on a pass play by Pangle had saved the march on the Cards' 20 yard line.

At the 9 yard line the Pirates met determined resistance. Four plays by Smith ended with the ball on the 1 yard line and the Cards took possession.

Grosvenor kicked out to the Cardinals' 37 yard line and two plays later Bree Cuppoletti, Cardinal guard, intercepted a short pass by John Karcis, Pirate full back. With the ball on their 35 yard line as a result the Chicagoans began the march for their second touchdown.

Grosvenor opened with an eleven yard slash at end and, except for one

Green Bay, Wis., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—The Green Bay Packers today continued their drive toward the top of the National Professional Football league, defeating the Cleveland Rams, 35 to 7. The Packers scored in every quarter except the second, when the Rams put over their lone touchdown.

Clark Hinkle went over for one touchdown and kicked five extra points to lead the Packers' scoring. Schneidman, Bruder, Laws and Schammel made the other Green Bay touchdowns. Drake went across for Cleveland.

Packers Score in First Period.

The Packers began the scoring midway in the first quarter when, after an attempted placement by Hinkle from the 50 yard line, Laws returned a Ram punt to his own 46 yard line. Hinkle picked up two through center and Monnett went off tackle for three more. On the next play Monnett tossed a pass to Hinkle, who caught it on the Cleveland 37 yard line and ran for a touchdown. Hinkle was knocked down on the 5 yard line by Pincura, but got up to step over the goal. Hinkle then kicked the extra point.

The second Packer score came later in the same quarter when Monnett returned a punt from his 15 to the 37 yard line. Two running plays and a pass from Monnett to Scherer made it first down on the Ram 40 yard line. Laws and Schneidman picked up fourteen yards on two running plays. Monnett, on an attempted pass, ran his right end to the 10 yard line. After two plunges Monnett dropped back and tossed a pass to Schneidman in the end zone. Hinkle again kicked the extra point.

The Rams took the kickoff and started a march from their own 25 yard line, a fifteen yard penalty against the Packers helping them along to their touchdown. Drake scored on a one yard plunge. Snyder missed the placement, but the Packers were offside, and on the second attempt Snyder was successful. The Packers threatened again before the half was over but were unable to score.

Packers Start Again.

The Packers scored after four plays in the second half. Miller started it with a ten yard run around end. He made six more and then Hinkle, on a reverse play, went to the Cleveland 11 yard line. It was a gain of thirty-nine yards. On the next play Bruder circled his right end for the score. Hinkle kicked the point.

The Packers scored two touchdowns in the final quarter, the first coming when Monnett, from the Cleveland 22 yard line, passed to Gantenbein on the 10, the receiver lateraling to Laws, who scored. Hinkle kicked the goal. The final score came when Gantenbein intercepted a pass on the Cleveland 28 yard line, ran twenty-three yards and then threw a lateral to Schammel, a guard, who scored. Hinkle then made his fifth point after touchdown.

GANGWAY! HERE COMES THE BEARS' HEAVY MAN

Bronko Nagurski, Bears' full back, breaks away for a seventeen yard gain. This play occurred as the Chicago team marched toward its first touchdown in yesterday's game with the Detroit Lions at Wrigley field. With the ball on Detroit's 30 yard line, Nagurski pounded through inside the Lions' right tackle. He drove right over Lee Stokes and was tackled by Dutch Clark, but kept going until Ernie Caddell and Vernon Huffman lent a hand to bring him down on the 13 yard line. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Redskins Win, 10 to 7, in Last Half Minute

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 24.—(AP)—A 27 yard field goal by Riley Smith in the last 30 seconds of play today gave the Washington Redskins a 10 to 7 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles in a National Professional Football league game.

A crowd of 13,167 saw the Redskins, trailing, 7 to 0, at half time, come from behind in the third period to tie the score on a fifty-nine yard forward pass, Sammy Baugh to Charlie Malone, and then march sixty-five yards to the Eagles' 20 yard line in the last two minutes to set the stage for Smith's winning field goal.

Battles Starts Parade.

Cliff Battles, who gained 103 yards by rushing, started this last advance by intercepting Emmett Mortell's forward pass on the Washington 14 yard line and running it back forty-two yards. He then carried the ball six times to the Eagles' 20 yard line, where, on fourth down, Smith kicked his placement.

The Eagles score on a 36 yard forward pass in the second period, Mortell to Joe Carter. Lineup:

GIANTS, 21; DODGERS, 0

New York, Oct. 24.—(AP)—The New York Giants rolled over the Brooklyn Dodgers for a 21 to 0 triumph at the Polo Grounds this afternoon. A chilled crowd of 25,000 saw the Giants, eastern division leaders in the National Professional league, mow down their interborough rivals.

The Giants took command of the game less than two minutes after the opening kickoff and dominated it completely thereafter. Tuffy Leemans cut through right tackle and went to the Dodger 45 yard line from his 24. As he went down he lateraled to Ward Cuff, who galloped over the goal line.

The second team scored in the second period. Kink Richards made a twenty-six yard gain to the Dodgers' 2 yard line and set up the scoring play, a pass from Ed Danowski to Les Corzine.

First Team Scores Again.

The first Giant eleven came in in the third quarter and scored again. Corzine intercepted one of Kelly's passes, putting the ball on the Dodger 24 yard line. Leemans then flipped a pass to Cuff over the goal line for the final touchdown. Tilly Manton place kicked his third point of the afternoon and his 22d straight as a Giant. Lineup:

SANTA CLARA IS STILL UNBEATEN; DEFEATS LOYOLA

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 24.—(AP)—The Santa Clara football team remained among the nation's few undefeated, untied elevens tonight by turning back Loyola, 7 to 0.

Midway in the final quarter Bill Gunther, South Clara full back, intercepted a Loyola pass and ran half the distance of the field for the only touchdown of the game.

De Paul Beats Loyola, 18 to 7, as Mattei Stars

New Orleans, La., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—Capt. Paul Mattei supplied the spark that fired De Paul university of Chicago to an 18 to 7 victory over Loyola university of New Orleans today as a crowd of 18,000 turned out for the dedication of the new municipal football stadium.

Mattei scored in the first period and came back in the third quarter to make the last touchdown. Pat Howlett supplied the other touchdown with a forty-six yard run in the first period.

Loyola Scores in Second.

Loyola pushed over a score in the second period.

De Paul struck soon after the opening kickoff. Mattei ran back a Loyola put to the Demons' 44 yard line, and Postaer sent a pass to O'Brien, who dashed to the Loyola 30 yard line. A five yard penalty and Mattei's run off tackle advanced the ball to the 5 yard line. Mattei cut over the same spot to score.

Kelley recovered a fumble at midfield to set the stage for Howlett's forty-six yard dash around right end for the second score. Cutting back, after reaching the line, Howlett twisted to the left and dashed to the goal.

Fumble Aids Loyola.

A fumble gave Loyola its first scoring chance in the second period. Corrigan's fumble was recovered by Right Guard Rooney on the De Paul 15 yard line. An excessive time out penalty carried the ball to the 10 yard line and Mike Casey, sub half back, went around right end for six yards. A lateral, Casey to Calhoun, advanced to the 1 yard line and Calhoun crashed left tackle for the score. Koehl added the point.

The Demons again threatened when Naughton recovered a loose lateral on the Loyola 24 yard line. Howlett sent a pass to O'Brien, who was downed on the 2 yard line. Mattei then crashed the left side for a touchdown.

Chesney's interception of a pass on the De Paul 5 yard line turned back a threat in the last quarter after Loyola had driven sixty yards, with Casey doing some neat running.

LONG MARCHES, TRICKY PASSES WHIP DETROIT

34,530 See Game—a Chicago Record.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Fifteen inspired linemen, rising to the heights for their first major test in the National league race, preserved the Bears' perfect record yesterday by checking Detroit's vaunted running attack and paving the way for a 28 to 20 victory before 34,530 at Wrigley field.

Behind the almost flawless play of these fifteen stalwarts, Bear backs were able to combine effectively a powerful running attack with strategically called passes to pile up 350 yards and lead throughout a fierce, sensational contest.

It was the Bears' fifth victory and was scored before the largest crowd in the history of professional football in Chicago. The attendance eclipsed by 3,000 the previous record, established in 1925 when Red Grange made his professional debut against the Cardinals on the same gridiron.

There was no mistaking the Bears' superiority after the first touchdown march, which got under way from Detroit's 26 yard line, where Vernon Huffman's punt, partially blocked by Left Tackle Joe Stydahar, rolled out of bounds early in the first period.

Bears' Line Effective.

Concentrating on Rookie Right Tackle Bob Reynolds, the line opened holes inside and outside of the former Stanford star to let Ray Nolting and Bronko Nagurski advance to the 2 yard line in five plays. Thereafter it stopped the famous Detroit spinner and wide reverse plays on all but three occasions. Ernie Caddel got away once for eight yards and again for fifteen yards on the reverse and Bill Shepherd, relieving Ace Gutowsky at full back, spun inside right tackle once for fifteen yards.

Once the terror of the league and good for nearly 400 yards against the Bears on Thanksgiving day last year, the Lion attack piled up only 102 yards by rushing yesterday as the Bear line ripped gaping holes in the middle of the Detroit line and piled up plays at the line of scrimmage.

Clark Gets Away.

Only the matchless Dutch Clark, Detroit's player-coach, was able to make any appreciable headway against this defense, scoring two of his team's three touchdowns. Clark returned a punt forty-eight yards to the 7 yard line, then following a play that had lost a yard went five and three yards off the Bears' left tackle for the first Lion score in the second period.

He slipped outside the same tackle for the last Detroit score late in the fourth quarter after two passes, Caddel's fourteen yard sprint, and Shepherd's fifteen yard spinner had sustained a sixty-three yard march to the 2 yard line. Shepherd made the other Lion score in the second period on a two yard off tackle smash, climaxing a sixty-eight yard march in which passes accounted for forty-four yards.

Stydahar Blocks Punt.

Stydahar set up the first Bear touchdown by breaking through and partially blocking Huffman's punt. The ball went only six yards, bouncing out of bounds on Detroit's 26 yard line. Manders failed to take out Klewicki on the first play and the Detroit end dumped Nolting for a four yard loss. Nagurski then broke inside of Right Tackle Reynolds, shook two tacklers, and bullied his way seventeen yards to the 13 yard line before three Lions brought him down. He went wide around left end for four yards on the next play.

Nolting got a yard over right guard on a quick opening play, then added four yards on the same play. He made it first down on the 2 yard line, with a two yard gain off left tackle. Nagurski smashed inside of Reynolds for the touchdown, and

NEW PITT POLICY PUTS TEAMS ON COMMON LEVEL

Football De-Emphasis to Balance Competition.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 24.—In the same papers today which carried the score: Pittsburgh, 21; Wisconsin, 0, the University of Pittsburgh, through its director of athletics, Jimmy Hagan, and with approval of the athletic council and Chancellor John G. Bowman, announced that it would cease subsidizing athletes.

Pittsburgh, according to Hagan's nine point plan which was approved last summer, will abandon its September football training camp, will give athletes no help other than jobs which they must obtain through the same bureau operating for nonathletes and will shorten and deemphasize schedules.

Novels Draw Plots from Pitt.

Football at Pittsburgh was recognized tacitly as near professional long before the Carnegie investigation. At least two novels on football evils have been written which had plots recognizable as drawn from circumstances pertaining to Pittsburgh. That this undercurrent of innuendo and charges was not brought to light was due partly to the fear that the public might suspect the pot was calling the kettle black, always a common defensive maneuver.

Even so, the public frequently has had difficulty differentiating between subsidization by pay and subsidization by remittance of tuition by scholarship and offers of jobs for room and board.

If both are subsidization, the cash payment often has been preferred by that element which thinks in terms of gate receipts and believes that the workman is worthy of his hire.

Brings Harrison's Resignation.

Pittsburgh's declaration of intention, when honestly fulfilled, will place its football on the same level as the Western conference. Without imputing selfish motives, it may be added that Pitt's success on the gridiron and the wide spread knowledge of the manner by which that success was achieved, has caused recent severance of profitable football relationships. This was one subject which brought about the resignation of Don Harrison, former Pitt director, last spring. That resignation spotlighted the controversy.

Pitt's football teams may not be as formidable in the future. That remains to be ascertained. But no matter what Pitt may accomplish later, the Panthers, who yesterday whipped Wisconsin, are one of the great elevens of the year.

Wisconsin Outclassed.

Wisconsin was outclassed in every department of line play. The triumph was the more humiliating since Pitt declined to use forward passes. Only Wisconsin's stubborn defense, when all that could be gained was a smaller margin of defeat, and Pitt's haphazard handling of the ball, kept the count to 21 points. Pitt gained 427 yards from scrimmage to 13 for the Badgers.

Wisconsin still must be proud of a fighting team which stopped Pitt on its 6 yard line in the first half and again held in the second half on its 1 yard line. The Badgers were alert and they recovered six of Pitt's eight fumbles.

Wisconsin has three more games with Pittsburgh in the currently scheduled series.

N. U. Will Be Hard to Beat.

Wisconsin's immediate concern, of course, is its game this week with Northwestern. The Wildcats, beaten 7 to 0 by Ohio State, probably have no chance now to retain even a share of their Big Ten title. But Northwestern will be difficult for Wisconsin to beat despite last year's scoring duel, which was won by Northwestern, 26 to 18, and which indicates an equality of offense.

Should Wisconsin win from Northwestern, a highly regarded honor, Purdue and Minnesota still will bar the path to a share of the title.

Ohio State, although victorious over Northwestern, still faces Chicago, Indiana, Illinois, and Michigan. Indiana the most formidable, but Illinois or Michigan may prove a surprise.

Northwestern fought off Ohio State in the first half. Despite Bernard Jefferson's hurried punting, a recovered fumble and a pass interception held the Buckeyes at bay. Then, in the second half, the Wildcats had two scoring chances and failed. Ohio State held for downs on its 5 yard line, and then, after Howard Wedebrook's kick had shot out of bounds on Ohio's 13 yard line, the Buckeyes held again, and Jack Ryan missed a field goal.

Wasylik's 21 Yard Run Helps.

Jefferson's blocked kick, recovered by Ohio on Northwestern's 35 yard line, opened the Buckeye bid for victory. Nick Wasylik's 21 yard run around right end was the principal factor in making the score, and from this point the Buckeyes hammered over in six plays.

Under the 1937 rule which permits the kicking team to run with a blocked kick, Ohio State scored the extra point. Kovatch blocked McDonald's kick, but Nardi picked up the loose ball and lateraled to McDonald, who ran 13 yards to the goal line. There is no approved ruling in the code which prohibits this maneuver on an attempt for the point after touchdown. Certainly it is a legal play otherwise.

Notre Dame's long delayed assault whipped Navy, 9 to 7, in a fourth period rally. That the Irish needed a bit of luck to win by a safety may be no more than compensation for last week's defeat at Carnegie. The Irish, however, overcame a record number of fumbles to tie the count on Jack McCarthy's touchdown run of 32 yards. Chuck Sweeney later tackled McFarland behind the Navy goal line for the winning points.

The Irish now invade Minneapolis, and while many will name the Gophers as probable winners, Notre Dame can reëstablish itself by an upset.

Michigan's 54 yard march produced the Wolverines' first conference victory after ten Big Ten defeats only because Trosko place kicked the extra point. Iowa later scored six points on Sophomore Nile Kinnick's 74 yard punt return, but Tackle Smith of Michigan blocked the try for the extra point. Kinnick again showed that he is one of the outstanding sophomores of this conference season.

Indiana had no trouble whipping Cincinnati, 27 to 0, and now meets Nebraska, which yesterday downed Missouri, 7 to 0. Brown's surprise conquest of Columbia, 7 to 6, was matched in the east by Dartmouth's surprisingly large margin of victory over Harvard, 20 to 2. Fordham edged out Texas Christian, 7 to 6, while Yale continued undefeated by trouncing Cornell, 9 to 0.

California Marches to Title.

California overwhelmed Southern California, 20 to 6, in its march toward the Pacific coast championship. In the South, Louisiana State, defending title holder, dropped the decision to Vanderbilt, 7 to 6, which leaves Alabama the favorite to win the 1937 championship. Auburn's 21 to 0 conquest of Georgia Tech was unexpected.

BY OFFSIDE.

The Cleveland Slavias, Ohio soccer champions, and Sparta played to a 1 to 1 tie yesterday at Sparta stadium. It was the Slavias' first appearance of the season in Chicago.

The Spartas assumed the offensive at the start of the game, but the unusual work of C. Tangler, Slavia goalkeeper, prevented their scoring. Persistency was rewarded, however. Sparta scored at the 15 minute mark when Scott drove a long kick down the field to Wolf, who slipped the ball past Lewis into the net.

The Slavias tied the score in five minutes, A. Schemp avoiding Coyle for a succesful shot at the goal. The rest of the game was fought on even terms, with Silvosky playing brilliantly as goalkeeper for the Spartas and the Spartas rallying in the final minutes to threaten to break the tie.

BEARS' MARCHES, PASSES DEFEAT LIONS, 28 TO 20

34,530 Attendance Sets Chicago Record.

Manders added the extra point, kicking the ball over the new left field bleachers into the street.

Bears Score Again.

Detroit received the ensuing kickoff and made a first down, but had to punt and Huffman dropped the ball out of bounds on the Bears' 35 yard line. The Bears started from here, reaching the 1 yard line as the quarter ended. Masterson went over on a quarterback sneak on the first play of the second period and Manders kicked the extra point, making the score Bears, 14; Lions, 0. Nagurski got away for seventeen yards on a man in motion play in this sixty-five yard march and Manders split the guards for twenty-three yards on a quick opening play.

Detroit had been bottled up behind its own 30 yard line, all this while, but began moving as soon as Shepherd had returned Manders' kick off twenty-eight yards to the Lions' 23 yard line. Clark made eleven yards in two thrusts off the Bears' left tackle and advanced another five yards on a penalty when Musso sassed an official. Clark's third thrust off tackle ended in a surprise pass to right end, Morse, for 19 yards. Morse lateraled to Huffman and the big half back legged it forty-one yards to the goal line, but the lateral was ruled a forward pass, and Detroit was penalized five yards to the Bears' 47 yard line.

Fumble Checks Lions.

Shepherd passed seventeen yards to Klewicki for a first down on the 30 yard line. Clark's pass was incomplete, but his second one fell into Huffman's arms and the rookie raced down the side lines. A touchdown appeared inevitable, but Huffman fumbled on the six yard line, and the ball bounded into the end zone, where Masterson recovered it for a touchback.

The Bears' second team was stopped and in an instant the Lions were back on the goal line. Clark took Francis' punt on the west side of the field, reversed his field twice without gaining five yards, then broke away to the east side for 48 yards to the seven yard line, where Francis nudged him out of bounds. Shepherd lost a yard on a spinner aimed at Left Tackle Stydahar, but Clark went five yards, then three yards through the same hole for the touchdown. Musso blocked Clark's attempted drop kick for the extra point.

Bears Increase Lead.

Monahan's kick off was short and McDonald brought it back nineteen yards to the 30 yard line. Karr made a shoestring catch of Masterson's pass for a sixteen yard gain. Francis and Manders hammered the center of the line for eight yards and Masterson made it first down on the Lions' 42 yard line, with a two yard buck. On the next play, Masterson flipped a twenty-two yard pass straight down the middle to Karr, who had gotten away from Cardwell. Karr took it in stride beating Shepherd in a race to the goal line. Manders added the extra point and the Bears led 21 to 6.

It now was the Bears' turn to kick off to the Lions and the Lions' turn to score, a matter to which they attended in twelve plays. Gutowsky brought back the kick off twenty yards to the 32 yard line. After Gutowsky's pass had been knocked down, Shepherd made ten yards in two smashes outside the Bears' left tackle. His first pass to Klewicki was too far, but his second was ruled complete for interference on the Bears' 44 yard line, a gain of fourteen yards.

Lions Score Again.

Shepherd made a yard at center and threw one pass wild, then passed to Huffman for twelve yards and another first down on the Bears' 31 yard line. Gutowsky and Shepherd both were trapped on pass plays and each broke away from tacklers for a gain, Gutowsky getting six yards and Shepherd five, making it first down on the Bears' 20 yard line. Shepherd passed to Huffman on the next play for eighteen yards, then dove over the goal line on a cutback play inside of Left Tackle Trost. Shepherd also kicked the extra point.

Thirty seconds later, the half ended with the Bears leading 21 to 13. The third period was scoreless.

In the fourth quarter the Bears took the ball on their own 33 yard line and began piling into the center of the line. Without seeming effort they advanced to Detroit's 27 yard line in eight plays with Manders making gains of ten, eight, and six yards.

Then Manders went wide for two yards, after which Masterson passed twenty-five yards to Manske, who had gone down inside of Cardwell, the defensive right half back. When Cardwell turned his back to the passer, Manske slipped outside of him and took the ball for the touchdown. Manders kicked the extra point.

Then It's Lions' Turn.

The Gaston-Alfonse aspect returned when the Lions received the kick off, following Manske score, and marched down the field to their last touchdown. A pass Huffman to Morse from punt formation on the first play gained twenty yards and put the ball on Bears' 45 yard line. Caddell, faking a wide reverse, passed, but Nolting broke it up. Then Caddell kept the ball on the same reverse and ran fourteen yards. Clark passed nine yards to Morse and followed with a three yard thrust inside the Bears' left tackle. Shepherd, whirling like a top on Detroit's famous full back spinner, shot inside the same tackle for fifteen yards, putting the ball on the 4 yard line. He got two yards on a buck, then Clark slipped outside the Bears' left tackle for the score and drop-kicked the extra point.

Loyola then moved the ball to the 3 yard line on forward passes and line smashes. The Fenwick line held for three downs, but on the final down Gordon faded back to the 10 yard line and hurled a pass to Deleonardis in the end zone. Kelly, sent in to try for the point, missed.

St. Rita Wins.

In the south section De La Salle and Mount Carmel battled to a scoreless tie. St. Rita remained in the running for the section title by trimming St. Philip, 24 to 0. It was the second triumph in three starts for St. Rita.

Leo Wins, 26-6, from St. Mel on Plunges, Pass

Leo of the Catholic high school league's south section defeated the St. Mel eleven of the north division, 26 to 6, yesterday at Soldiers' field before a crowd estimated at 40,000. Proceeds went to the Sisters of Mercy fund.

It was Leo's second victory in the annual charity game, the south siders having turned back St. Philip in 1935. Leo, with three victories, is undefeated in the current Catholic league race.

Galvin Leads Attack.

Johnny Galvin led Leo's attack with two touchdowns. The other two Leo touchdowns were scored by George Hofbauer, who replaced McLaughlin at full back, and Ed Stephens. St. Mel managed to avert a shutout when Vincent Henehan went over in the final quarter.

In the opening quarter Leo started a drive from St. Mel's 30 yard line which culminated in Galvin's two yard plunge for the first touchdown. He then kicked the point to give Leo a 7 to 0 lead at the end of the first quarter.

Two More on Plunges.

Another two yard plunge by Galvin after a twenty-five yard pass from Johnny Daley to Stephens gave Leo a 13 to 0 lead at the half. Hofbauer, in for McLaughlin at full back, went over from the 1 yard line in the third period for the south siders' third touchdown.

St. Mel started a passing attack early in the fourth quarter and completed three to score its touchdown, the scoring toss going from Thurnblad to Henehan. Leo's final touchdown came on an eleven yard pass from McGowan to Stephens, who crashed over from the 5 yard line. Lineup:

smash by Pangle, he continued to pace the march. Lawrence got around right end then for eighteen yards and a first down on the Pirates' 15 yard line. Four more plays with Grosvenor carrying moved the ball to the 2 yard line. Then Lawrence went around right end for the touchdown.

The Pirates' first period move, while linking together four first downs, bogged down on the Cardinals' 32 yard line and on fourth down, standing on the Cards' 39 yard line, Armand Niccolai, Pirate tackle, missed a place kick.

May's Kick Goes Wide.

May also had a chance to place kick in the third quarter when the teams still were deadlocked without a score. This opportunity opened with Blood's kick out on his 45 yard line. The Cards advanced to the Pirates' 20 yard line and on fourth down May's placement from the 27 yard line went to the left of the uprights.

Each team made nine first downs. The Pirates made six by rushing, two by penalty, and one by passing. The Cards had five by rushing, three by passing, and one by penalty.

Of twenty passes the Pirates completed five for eighty-five yards and three passes intercepted. The Cardinals passed thirteen times and completed six for eighty-two yards. None was intercepted.

The Pirates gained ninety-nine yards by rushing as compared to ninety-three yards by the Cardinals. Pittsburgh was penalized twice for offside, both penalties being assessed in the last minute of the game. The Cardinals lost twenty-five yards by penalty. Each team fumbled three times and all misplays were recovered by the men fumbling.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

Fall Plowing Starts.

Oct. 24, 1937.

LAST week's rains softened the ground at the Tribune Wheaton farm, making it possible to resume fall plowing that had been held up for about two months because the soil was too dry and hard to turn. The rains also helped pastures and the late sown rye, that was just coming through the ground.

A three bottom gang plow was started Thursday morning in a field of bluegrass sod. A total of about 35 acres of sod ground—old pastures where the stands of grass were thinned out during the recent dry years—are to be broken this fall. Twelve acres were plowed late in the summer after light rains had put the soil in good working condition.

Hopes to Bury Hoppers.

The farm manager hopes that plowing the sod fields this fall may help to control grasshopper attacks by burying the eggs so deeply that the young hoppers will be unable to crawl out of the ground when they hatch next spring.

The Wheaton farm suffered the worst grasshopper damage this year in its history. The pests were thick from early in July until cold weather this fall. A few still were in the sod and stubble fields last week. Past experience has shown that a heavy infestation by grasshoppers one year likely will be followed by another the next season unless some special effort is made to destroy the insects.

Deep fall plowing of ground infested with grasshopper eggs is said to be one of the most effective methods of control. The eggs are deposited in the surface soil, usually under clumps of grass or other vegetation and not more than two inches deep. While plowing does not destroy the eggs nor prevent their hatching the following spring, it may put the eggs so deeply under the surface that the young grasshoppers will not be able to get out. The ground should be plowed at least four inches and preferably six inches deep for best results, experts say.

Fear Heavy Infestation.

Grasshoppers are expected to be numerous at the farm next year, regardless of how effective the fall plowing plan of control may be. They infested practically the entire farm this year and probably laid many eggs in fields that will not be plowed, although they were thickest in the pastures that now are being broken.

Most of the test plot crops at the farm have been harvested and the plots soon will be closed for the winter. The farm manager advises teachers who plan to visit the farm with their classes this fall to make the trip as soon as possible.

BRIGHT OCTOBER WEATHER LURES CHICAGOANS OUT

Yesterday's sunny skies and comfortable temperatures sent city dwellers into parks and along countrysides, to witness the finale of autumn's flaming display. Children in snowsuits loitered in pathways to watch squirrels beg for nuts. Gaily clad men and women wheeled by on bicycles. In the open spaces hocky players played their first games of the season, while, not far distant, golfers were counting scores for their last rounds until spring. Two hundred bicycle fans took a bike train to Walworth, Wis., where they pedaled over a twenty mile route, circling Delavan woods.

Winter settled down yesterday for a brief stay in the south after its visit to Chicagoland. Official reports showed there was a heavy freeze at Mobile, Ala., and light frost as far south as northern Florida. Warmer weather is forecast for Chicago today.

NEWS OF FINANCIAL AND GRAIN MARKETS

WILDEST TRADE SINCE '29 FINDS MARKET IN DAZE

Crashes, Rallies and Cracks Up Again.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 24.—[Special.]—One of the most spectacular and dizzy weeks of trading on the New York Stock exchange since the early days of the Roosevelt administration in 1933 came to an end on Saturday. Climaxing a bear raid that started in September, the market tumbled, returning the list to the level it tenanted in 1935.

Old records went into the discard as 1,056 stocks sank to new low marks for the year and longer and orders to sell flooded the floor of the exchange on Monday and early Tuesday. No group found sympathy. If anything, the so-called blue ribbon equities suffered more acutely than less favored issues.

Scenes were enacted reminiscent of 1929 as weary margin clerks dispatched calls for more margins. Lights burned late in the financial district. Banks reported heavy withdrawals of cash by depositors to be used in bolstering stock accounts.

Investment Firms Buy.

Then just as it appeared that the liquidation was endless support came into the list. Investment institutions decided the time had arrived to buy. Bargain hunters likewise began to enter the market. Encouraged as prices began to come back the public bought stock. Early Tuesday losses running as high as 13 points were recouped completely by the end of the session in the general list.

The rally carried over into Thursday morning and the comeback was nearly as strong as the decline. All the ground lost Monday and early Tuesday had been made up. Then profit taking again reversed the trend late Thursday and Friday. Saturday the market slumped badly under the influence of acute weakness in rail and steel stocks.

Busiest Since 1934.

From the standpoint of volume the week was the busiest since the week ended Feb. 10, 1934, a total of 22,494,770 shares changing hands. The Saturday volume of 1,565,020 shares was the largest for any week-end since March 6.

Throughout the period the ticker tape proved to be inadequate in furnishing prompt reports of operations on the floor. Confusion was rampant throughout the jammed boardrooms in the street as sales came over the tape that had been consummated 10 to 15 minutes earlier. Difficulty was found on several days in arranging opening sales. Governors of the exchange moved about the posts endeavoring to unravel tangled situations. Brokers shouted themselves hoarse.

Price fluctuations in the early part of the week were the widest since the collapse of 1929.

Stock Break Attributed to 'Thin' Market

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The accumulation of capital is a slow and laborious process. Development may be greatly retarded when no capital is available with which to exploit economic opportunities. When the promise of profit presents itself, capital knows no boundaries and seeks investment in foreign fields, but a scarcity of capital will be a definite check on economic progress.

The investor [capitalist] is an individual who has a surplus of funds which he does not require for immediate needs and who is willing to risk his money by financing the operations and promotions of others for the chance of profit. The investor's lot is by no means always a happy one. He may lose the money he risks in financing the ideas and schemes of others.

A minority stockholder, with little to say in the management of the enterprises to which he has furnished capital, may lead an uninteresting life, but surely a useful one. He helps finance what is left to others to create.

Many Persons Own Stocks.

In the United States a large number of persons of moderate means have become stockholders in the country's biggest enterprises. But the average man earning a good salary provides for many other purposes before he uses any of his earnings to buy securities. He provides for the care of his family and the education of his children, and if a surplus remains he may invest in securities. When he does he becomes a capitalist.

The surplus savings that he accumulates, together with the savings of other persons who are similarly situated, constitute the reservoir of capital on which business and industry may draw. At times this reservoir of funds may prove inadequate to absorb the security issues that are placed on the market.

Taxes Force Sacrifices.

The breaking up of holdings of big estates, which has been greatly accelerated by federal and state inheritance taxes, is frequently carried out at a sacrifice because of the absence of a ready market. A ready market exists only where buyers are plentiful. Securities of high grade investment rating have to be sold at substantial price concessions when buyers cannot be found who are prepared to purchase in quantity.

The price fluctuations in a "thin market" are great. Wide swings in values develop when the market is called upon to absorb any sizable offerings.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL OPERATING NET RISES SHARPLY

The Illinois Central railway system yesterday reported net operating income in September totaled $2,454,488, against $1,529,556 in September, 1936. Gross operating revenues for the month amounted to $9,731,304, against gross income of $9,706,859 last year.

Net operating income for the first nine months of this year aggregated $11,325,142, against $9,839,758 in the like 1936 period. Gross railway income for the first nine months increased $2,405,630 over last year to a total of $84,640,021.

Investment Marketability.

Marketability is an important factor when making an investment. A security may be of the highest grade, but unless it is readily salable the holder may be forced to sell it for less than he paid in case he finds it necessary to convert a part of his investments into cash hurriedly.

Readily marketable securities usually command a higher price in relation to their dividend yield or rate of interest than do those of equal grade but which are less salable. The investor must determine before he purchases securities what his future demands for cash may be, how much of his money should go into easily negotiable securities, and how much into those which have a less ready sale.

Securities listed on the big stock exchanges usually have a ready market and a price that can be determined from day to day. However, there are a large number of unlisted securities which also are bought and sold actively on the over the counter or unlisted market. Consequently it is not necessary to purchase only listed securities.

Lincoln Cars Are Offered in 21 Bodies

The 1938 line of Lincoln automobiles—built by the Lincoln Motor company—consists of twenty-one body types, ranging from sports cars to formal chauffeur driven town cars. Changes in appearance consist of the use of chromium on the belt molding and on the redesigned hood louvres, and a new pattern for the radiator grille.

With the exception of a few of the close coupled body designs, which are built on a 136 inch wheelbase, Lincoln's 1938 line will have a 145 inch wheelbase, as in the 1937 models.

The engine, consisting of twelve cylinders in V-formation, develops 150 horsepower. Hydraulic valve lifters, which automatically adjust themselves, are described as contributing to engine quietness.

The cable conduit braking system is equipped with a vacuum booster for greater ease in stopping, and it is adjustable to road conditions by a lever on the instrument board. The gear shifting mechanism has been redesigned to prevent the engagement of gears until they are in perfect synchronization.

Four of the 1938 bodies are built by Lincoln and the others are designed by four coachmakers, Brunn, Judkins, LeBaron, and Willoughby.

BUSINESS ILLS ARE TRACED TO FALSE PLEDGES

Roosevelt's Budget Juggling Blamed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—The lack of business confidence, which is retarding business recovery, was laid at the door of the administration tonight by the National Economy league. It was attributed to false fiscal promises.

John C. Gebhart, director of the league, in commenting upon President Roosevelt's latest revision of the budget, declared it to be one more example of belated correction of "over-optimistic and wishful" estimates.

"These repeated submissions of over-optimistic figures, requiring repeated revision, always in the wrong direction, have impaired and virtually destroyed any confidence in the official estimates," he said. "This continued uncertainty as to fiscal policy unquestionably is one of the elements most responsible for the lack of business confidence and is retarding recovery."

732 Million Deficit.

The league noted that the latest revised budget estimates contemplate a net deficit of 732 million dollars as compared with a net surplus of 37 million predicted by Mr. Roosevelt in January. And it pointed out, the President indicated that even the latest estimates may have to be revised.

"When this budget was submitted in January, 1937," the league continued, "it promised a 'layman's balance.' The marked drop in revenues in March led to a revision of estimates in April, which showed a net deficit, or debt increase, of 418 million dollars. This latest revision, which allows for the appropriations of the last session, forecasts a net deficit of 695 million dollars.

"This is where we stand: Instead of a predicted net surplus [exclusive of debt retirement] of 37 million dollars, we are confronted with a prospective net deficit, or debt increase, of 695 million dollars. Therefore we shall be about 732 million dollars further in the red than we should have been if the original budget had been adhered to, provided the latest revision does not need to be revised again.

Receipts Below Estimate.

"As to receipts: The new estimate of 6 billion 650 million dollars is 643 million dollars below the original estimate and 256 million dollars below the April estimate.

"But the actual receipts may be far below this 6 billion 650 million dollar estimate, because of the reported decline in corporate earnings and the decline in stock market values which has occurred since these estimates were made.

"While estimates of receipts have been revised downward, estimated expenditures have been revised slightly upward. In January total expenditures [exclusive of debt retirement] were estimated at 7 billion 256 million dollars. These were revised upward by 68 million dollars in April and still further by 21 million dollars in the latest estimates."

National City Lines.

Investors' Guide: Information about stock of the National City Lines will be appreciated.—Miss S. B.

Answer: National City Lines, Inc., formed early in 1936, is primarily a holding company whose subsidiaries operate bus service in a number of middle western and southern cities. By issuance of its own securities or through cash it has acquired control of street railway as well as bus lines, substituting bus service in the case of the former.

Most recent acquisitions were the bus and street car systems of Beaumont and Port Arthur, Tex., including a twenty-mile bus line between the two cities, in September. Other cities served include Joliet, East St. Louis, Peru, and eleven other Illinois communities; Jackson, Saginaw, Pontiac, and three other Michigan cities; Montgomery, Ala., and Tulsa, Okla. The company also operates overland service between Chicago and Evansville, Ind., and Paducah, Ky. It owns about 600 buses. A subsidiary rents buses for chartered trips and buys, reconditions, and sells second-hand buses.

Operating revenues were $2,148,000 and net income was $184,000 in the six months ended June 30, 1937. This was equal to 54½ cents per common share after providing for preference and class A dividends.

Revenues amounted to $1,970,000 and net income was $56,000 or $1.86 per preference share, not covering requirements, from April 1 to Dec. 31, 1936.

Capitalization consists of 30,000 shares of $50 par preference stock, 30,000 shares of $10 par class A stock, and 200,000 shares of $1 par common. Each preference share is entitled to $3 annual dividends and is convertible into two common shares. Class A stock, all owned by City Coach Lines, Inc., is entitled to $2 annual dividends, cumulative after Feb. 1, 1938, and is convertible into 1½ common shares for each A share. Common stock is 60 per cent owned by Transportation Investors, Inc.

An initial dividend of 25 cents a share was paid on the common Aug. 1. Another 25 cent payment will be made Nov. 1 to stockholders of record Oct. 20.

The common should be considered speculative at present.

Chrysler Dividends.

Investors' Guide: What dividends has Chrysler paid this year?—B. F.

Answer: The company paid $1.50 a share on March 13, $2 on June 11, and $3.50 on Sept. 10.

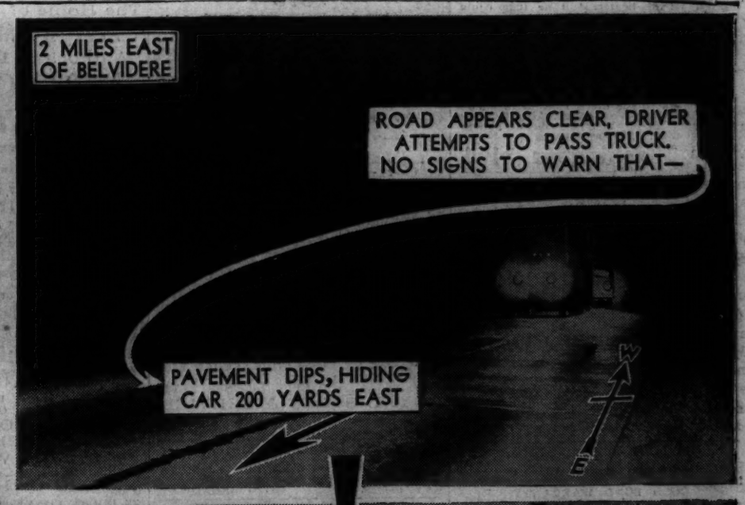
Reveal Perils at Night on U. S. 20, Where Possible Death or Injury Awaits the Motorist



2 MILES EAST OF BELVIDERE
ROAD APPEARS CLEAR, DRIVER ATTEMPTS TO PASS TRUCK. NO SIGNS TO WARN THAT—PAVEMENT DIPS, HIDING CAR 200 YARDS EAST

Every dot on the map in center (above) represents one of the 199 accidents, each involving one or more deaths or personal injuries, that have occurred since Jan. 1 along the 137 miles of U. S. 20 between East Dubuque and Elgin, Ill. The photographs illustrate some of the hazards to motorists and their locations on this cross-state route which were found in a night driving survey. Statistics show night travel to be six times as dangerous as in daylight, and driving perils not apparent in the daytime were found. Many of these hazards, according to trafic experts, could be eliminated. Advertising signs with reflector buttons and gasoline station signs glaring in the face of trafic were among the principal menaces to safe driving noted. (Story on page 3.)
